6 States To Vote In Week

... Pace Ups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The quickening pace of national election year politics finds six states holding primary elections this week.

Balloting is scheduled Monday in Maryland and on Tuesday in Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Florida and New Mexico. The Florida balloting for state offices is preliminary to a May 29 presidential primary.

The two active candidates for the Democratic nomination—Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—were out seeking votes in the forthcoming primaries.

Stevenson was in California, where he faces a contest with Kefauver June 5. The senator wound up a brief swing through Indiana. In Washington, Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) said Sunday he is confident Stevenson will again win the Democratic nomination. But he said it might take four convention ballots.

'Upstage'
Sparkman, who was Stevenson's vice presidential running mate in 1952, said his confidence stems in part from what he called an "upstage" of Stevenson sentiment in the South.

Kefauver is unopposed in Tuesday's presidential preference vote there since 1928. Eisenhower is unopposed on the Republican side. No write-in votes will be permitted.

The relative showing of Eisenhower and Kefauver may indicate the political sentiments of Indiana's big farm population.

Vote On Monday
In Monday's Maryland voting, Eisenhower and Kefauver are opposed by delegate states which would go to the party conventions uncommitted. The big contests here are for senatorial nominations.

Former Sen. Millard E. Tydings faces four opponents on the Democratic ballot and Sen. John Marshall Butler has two Republican challengers.

James W. Martin Heads Auctioneers

DAVID CITY, Neb. (AP)—James W. Martin, Chappell, was elected president of the Nebraska Auctioneers Assn. Sunday.

Rex Young, Plattsmouth, was elected vice president and Glen Helberg, North Platte secretary-treasurer.

Art Thompson of Lincoln was a speaker.

Woodrow R. Magee Dies; Store Partner

Woodrow R. Magee, 43, prominent Lincoln businessman and long-time local resident, died Sunday morning at Santa Barbara, Calif., after a short illness.

Mr. Magee was a partner in Magee's clothing firm, a business which his father founded in 1902.

He was a graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1934 where he was a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He was a member of Innocents Society and served as that group's alumni president in 1942. At the university he served as editor of the 1934 Cornhusker.

Mr. Magee was voted "Outstanding Young Man" of the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce and was a life member of that group.

A leader in the organization and direction of Cedars Home, he was a member of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Lincoln Sertoma Club and YMCA.

He was also a member of North Star Lodge 227, AF&AM.

Surviving are his wife, Marian; two daughters, Ann Cressley Magee and Katherine Throop Magee; mother, Mrs. Nellie T. Magee of Lincoln; brothers, O. Harold and Elmer E. of Lincoln; sisters, Mrs. Rosalie M. Johnson of Berkeley, Calif., Mrs. Ethel M. Amos and Mrs. Robert C. Verner, both of Lincoln.

1 Killed, 3 Hurt Near Wisner

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL
WISNER, Neb. — One man was killed and three persons injured, one seriously, in a two-car collision Sunday afternoon one-half mile east of Wisner on U.S. 275, the Safety Patrol reported.

Theodore Ludwig, 72, of West Point, was killed when the car he was driving west collided head-on with an eastbound car driven by Delores Wegner, 19, of Wisner.

Ludwig's wife, Mrs. Lulu Ludwig, 72, was reported in serious condition in a West Point hospital.

Miss Wegner suffered a cut nose and her mother, Mrs. Mabel Wegner, 46, of Wisner was taken to the hospital with a broken arm and broken pelvis.

The death was the state's 95th highway fatality of the year compared with 97 on the same date a year ago.

SHELBY, Neb. — Mayor Harold Perry was re-elected at the annual meeting. Maude Hartson was appointed village treasurer; Mills and Mills of Osceola, village attorney; Jess Cook, water commissioner, sewer overseer and marshal and Joshua Carter, night watchman.

Schuyler Pilot Critical After Plane Crashes

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL
SCHUYLER, Neb. — John J. Krula, 47, of Rt. 1 Schuyler, was listed in critical condition at Schuyler Memorial Hospital following the crash of his light plane about 4 a.m. Sunday northeast of Schuyler.

Krula, who took off to join in a Civil Patrol search and rescue mission, crashed about five miles from his farm.

Colfax County Sheriff Ed Patach said several persons in the area reported hearing a plane flying low about 4 a.m., but no one apparently heard the crash.

Krula was found in the plane about 8:30 a.m. by John Healey and his son who sighted the wreckage as they were returning from church. The plane crashed on the Healey farm, about four and a half miles east and six miles north of Schuyler.

The sheriff said that it appeared Krula had developed engine trouble and attempted to land, but that he was apparently too close to the ground, to control the craft.

Krula was reported suffering from loss of blood and exposure. The hospital later reported he had suffered multiple fractures.

Krula, a bachelor, was alone in his Paper Cub at the time of the crash.

At that time it will also be learned how far-reaching are plans of Hammarskjold and his true supervisor chief, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, to beef up U.N. observer patrols, withdraw opposing border forces and set up barriers along demarcation lines.

The Greeting Party
Representatives of the Western Big Three and the Yugoslav president of the Security Council were at the airport to meet him, as was Hans Engen of Norway, president of the Economic and Social Council.

Present also were representatives of the Middle East countries. They had seen him off April 4 on his mission, ordered by the Security Council. But no Russian was on hand, nor was the Jordan representative who normally is stationed in Washington.

Nor did the Russians issue any congratulatory statement through the U.N. as did the United States.

Meet Set To Discuss Release Of Inmates At Beatrice Home

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer
Two top state mental health officials will meet May 10 in Beatrice with the advisory committee of the Beatrice State Home.

Dr. Cecil Wittson, state mental health director, and Dr. Thaddeus P. Krush, director of community services division of the Psychiatric Institute, as well as state legislators and members of the Beatrice Home staff will attend the meeting.

Under discussion will be problems of releasing inmates of the home, and a conflict between operating procedures at the home and an interpretation of the law by the state attorney general.

Louis Jepperson, Hubbard, a member of the advisory group, said he would favor use of present procedures and "common sense" rather than the "letter of the law."

He pointed out that although the law provides for sterilization upon release, this has not always been done.

In a letter to Sen. Kathleen Foote of Axtell, Jepperson said the Beatrice home is "a haven for those who must be there, but a prison for those who can take care of themselves on the outside."

Jepperson cited the instance of a boy of 15 sent to him "without promises" who is now employed in California aircraft factory after serving two enlistments in the Marines.

Another case cited is of a girl who was released after two years.

The men of the 4th are not necessarily going back to the United States, but the division's headquarters will no longer be in Germany. Actually, it is a paper transfer since most of the men in the division already have been moved to other outposts.

—Security Council OK Certain— Praise Rings As Dag Back In U. S.

Mid-East Governments Must Now 'Make Good' On Promises

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold returned Sunday to a chorus of praise and certainty of Security Council approval for his month's Middle East negotiations on Israeli-Arab peace.

He told newsmen and diplomats at New York's Idlewild Airport that it is now up to the Middle East governments to make good on cease-fire pledges he has obtained from Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

"Only the future can show what, thanks to the good will of the governments concerned, may grow out of this unique assignment," he said.

Declines Answers
He declined to answer questions about his final report to the Council before he makes it public later this week. The extent of the cease-fire pledges will not be generally known until then.

Only one minor clash, on the Jordan-Israeli line, was reported this morning—the first in 48 hours. Security Council meetings are scheduled tentatively for the week of May 13. This will give the 11 Council powers time to study the report and ask their home capitals for instructions.

At that time it will also be learned how far-reaching are plans of Hammarskjold and his true supervisor chief, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, to beef up U.N. observer patrols, withdraw opposing border forces and set up barriers along demarcation lines.

The French view was that the decision scrapped the 1950 Big Three declaration on the Middle East. But American sources said the 1950 statement would still hold good if U.N. peace efforts failed.

The decision, already foreshadowed by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's cease-fire mission, acknowledges that the Soviet Union must have a big say in the Middle East. This was made inevitable by Egypt's acceptance of large-scale arms aid from behind the Iron Curtain.

Talked Two Hours
Dag Hammarskjold talked for two hours Sunday with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lord. Later, Pineau told reporters they had decided their three countries could no longer act under their six-year-old guarantee of the cease-fire line in Israel, which Russia did not join. The 1950 agreement, he said, no longer corresponds to the situation.

High American sources did not quite agree. They said the three-power agreement was subject to the members' responsibility to the United Nations. It now seemed more likely, they said, that Arab-Israeli issues could be settled in the Security Council. But they emphasized that the 1950 pact still stands in case U.N. efforts fail.

Americans said the Big Three had moved closer to common policies on the Middle East, but they were still at least one basic difference: The United States does not want to see a general embargo on arms to the area; Pineau said France would favor one.

Waives Right To Appeal
GRAHAM ASKS TO DIE 'AS SOON AS POSSIBLE'

DENVER (AP)—A signed affidavit by condemned murderer John Gilbert Graham, 24, requests that he be put to death in Colorado's gas chamber as soon as possible.

A District Court jury of seven men and five women convicted Graham of killing his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55, by dynamiting a commercial airliner. The crash took 44 lives.

The jurors recommended Graham, the father of two small children, be executed, and in his affidavit written in the presence of witnesses in his jail cell Sunday, Graham said, in part:

"I accept the verdict of the jury and desire that it be carried out with all convenient speed. This is my wish. I have been advised by my attorneys that under the law the sentence of death requires that it be appealed to the highest (court) of this state.

"I desire to waive that provision of law."

Dist. Judge Joseph M. McDonaid, who heard Graham's 17-day trial, will receive the convicted slayer's execution request tomorrow, along with the motion for the new trial.

Graham professed his innocence immediately after the jury verdict, reached in a little more than an hour's time. Guards said he has eaten little since the verdict, spending most of his time lying on his bunk staring at the ceiling.

'Gem Of Desert' Sees, Adores 'Dream' Fiance

... Mail Order Romance

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The romance of two young lovers who had never seen each other stood the test of a face-to-face meeting in Cairo's airport Sunday.

Laurence Shaker, shapely, green-eyed, 22-year-old Cairo secretary, fell into the arms of American radio announcer Carroll H. Pederson Jr., 28, when he arrived here to claim the sweetheart he had wooed and won through letters and tape recordings.

Laurence agreed to marry Pederson after an exchange of letters, photos and tape recordings and they expect to be married in Cairo's All Saints Cathedral next week. Then they will honeymoon at Mersa Matruh, a spot on the Mediterranean where Cleopatra once bathed.

When he stepped down from the plane in the early hours, Pederson smothered his mail order fiancee with kisses and declared, "I can't believe it's true. I am sure it's a dream. Probably when I wake tomorrow, I'll think I'm still in California."

Laurence's sister, Colette broke through a police cordon at the plane to kiss Pederson and so a was followed by Laurence's father, mother, brother and other members of the family. In front of the airport, an Arab band beat drums and played rutes while Arabs danced to welcome the bridegroom.

Laurence, whom Pederson calls "Gem of the Desert" and "princess of the Nile," works at the TWA office in Cairo.

"It's very strange," she commented, "we seem to agree on everything. It almost seems we were predestined."

"Any one who listened to his recordings would have fallen in love with him," Colette told a reporter. Pederson, a radio announcer from Salinas, Calif., fell in love with Laurence over a distance of 9,000 miles when he met her brother, who works with the Egyptian merchant marine in New York, and heard her described.

That was in January. A romance of letters and tape recordings followed, climaxed by the engagement. The couple expects to live in the United States after their marriage.

Shows, Drizzle Slated For West
Little temperature change is indicated for Nebraska for Monday according to Weather Bureau forecasts. The forecasts also call for scattered light rain or drizzle in the west.

Skies are to be mostly cloudy through Monday night with warming trends in the west and north by Tuesday. Scattered light showers may continue in the west Tuesday afternoon, the Weather Bureau said.

Temperatures Monday are expected to be generally in the lower 60s.

Traces of precipitation fell Sunday at Lincoln, Omaha, Scottsbluff and Valentine, the Weather Bureau reported.

BATTLESHIP PLOWS INTO DESTROYER

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The battleship Wisconsin rammed the escort destroyer Eaton Sunday in foggy weather about 50 miles off the Virginia capes. No casualties were reported.

The Navy said the collision occurred as the Eaton was making a turn to recover a crewman reported overboard. There was no word as to the fate of the crewman, who was not identified.

A Navy spokesman said the Eaton was in no immediate danger of sinking. The collision took the destroyer about 100 feet off her bow, slicing a deck-to-waterline gash 30 feet deep. One compartment was reported completely flooded and three others partially flooded.

The Wisconsin's bow also was damaged, Atlantic Fleet headquarters here said. The extent of damage was not known. It was not believed to be serious.

The collision occurred about 50 miles east northeast of Cape Henry while the ships were on exercises as units of a task group.

What Happens?
What happens to you when a bomb blasts off as you stand amid the maze of controls and instruments in the thick-walled safety of the bunker, as the shock wave and quake effect race by?

Felt says "nothing at all," explaining that the "just push buttons and watch lights."

He says the men in the bunker never see even a trace of the unearthly light from the exploding bomb. The sudden rush of air pushed outward by the explosion drops the air pressure in the bunker for a moment, causing the ears to crackle as in a sudden descent of a plane from high altitude.

Postponement of the Tuesday H-weapon drop was ordered because testers want to be sure the radioactive fallout does not drift outside the established danger zone as it did during the 1955 tests.

As 'Shot' Is Again Put Back

COULD SHAKE CITY TO BITS

By ELTON C. FAY
ABOARD USS MT. McKinley, Bikini Atoll (AP)

—A nuclear bomb exploded at ground level could shake a city to pieces with its earthquake-like concussion.

This was one of the new details of the tremendous power of the H-bomb made known to newsmen Sunday after bad weather forced postponement of a massive hydrogen blast scheduled for Tuesday.

The big H-bomb air-drop trial was reset tentatively for Wednesday — Tuesday, U.S. time. But Dr. William E. Ogle, acting scientific test director of Joint Task Force 7, told newsmen he would not be surprised if weather forced postponement to as late as May 15.

Little Said
Until now, little has been said about the earthquake-like effect of the nuclear bomb, which also destroys and kills by blast, heat flash, instantaneous radiation and the slow poison of radioactive contamination.

But newsmen, invited to the mid-Pacific proving ground to witness the scheduled test shot of an air-dropped H-weapon and inspect the area, learned some of the things the scientists have discovered about this little-discussed matter.

Detonation of an H-bomb at ground level produces a special effect which virtually makes of it a new weapon — a sort of Q-bomb for creating an earthquake.

Saw Examples
The visiting newsmen and Civil Defense observers saw some examples of what a surface detonation can do. They looked down from a plane into the mighty crater ripped out by the big 1954 H-bomb explosion.

Indigo blue water filled a two-mile-wide cavity where an island of the Bikini Atoll once stood. Crushed coral and sand were piled in mounds along the lagoon side of the crater, thrown out by the mighty blast.

Some indications of the far-reaching effect of this earth-shaking blast came from Atomic Energy Commission scientists. Dr. Gaalen L. Felt, who heads the scientific test group, said in answer to a question that he had observed definite earthquakes while in a concrete bunker on Enyu Island during surface explosions of thermonuclear weapons.

20 Miles Away
Surface detonations are conducted on the northern perimeter of the atoll—20 miles from the bunker on Enyu Island.

Civil Defense experts estimate that even a two-inch movement of a brick building in an earthquake can bring it tumbling down.

From the visible evidence and the cautious answers of the nuclear weapons people, it seems possible that the radius of total or heavy destruction by artificial earthquake might be up to eight or ten miles.

Added to this would be the result of the lateral blast of the bomb, its deadly radiation and the heat from the flash. However, the scope of these three effects would be less than that produced in an air burst.

What Happens?

Krula was found in the plane about 8:30 a.m. by John Healey and his son who sighted the wreckage as they were returning from church. The plane crashed on the Healey farm, about four and a half miles east and six miles north of Schuyler.

The sheriff said that it appeared Krula had developed engine trouble and attempted to land, but that he was apparently too close to the ground, to control the craft.

Krula was reported suffering from loss of blood and exposure. The hospital later reported he had suffered multiple fractures.

Krula, a bachelor, was alone in his Piper Cub at the time of the crash.

Meet Set To Discuss Release Of Inmates At Beatrice Home

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Two top state mental health officials will meet May 10 in Beatrice with the advisory committee of the Beatrice State Home.

Dr. Cecil Wittson, state mental health director, and Dr. Thaddeus P. Krush, director of community services division of the Psychiatric Institute, as well as state legislators and members of the Beatrice Home staff will attend the meeting.

Under discussion will be problems of releasing inmates of the home, and a conflict between operating procedures at the home and an interpretation of the law by the state attorney general.

Louis Jepperson, Hubbard, a member of the advisory group, said he would favor use of present procedures and "common sense" rather than the "letter of the law."

He pointed out that although the law provides for sterilization upon release, this has not always been done.

In a letter to Sen. Kathleen Foote of Axtell, Jepperson said the Beatrice home is "a haven for those who must be there, but a prison for those who can take care of themselves on the outside."

Jepperson cited the instance of a boy of 15 sent to him "without promises" who is now employed in a California aircraft factory after serving two enlistments in the Marines.

Another case cited is of a girl who was released after two years.

4th Division Moves Back To States

FRANKFURT, Germany (P)—The U.S. 4th Infantry Division, first major NATO replacement outfit to have its post in Europe, is out of business.

It bowed out with a lot of fanfare and hoopla in a three-hour parade through the streets of Frankfurt yesterday. There were 2,000 men in the line of march and hundreds crowded the parade route to watch.

The men of the 4th are not necessarily going back to the United States, but the division's headquarters will no longer be in Germany. Actually, it is a paper transfer since most of the men in the division already have been moved to other outfits.

Praise Rings As Dag Back In U. S.

Mid-East Governments Must Now 'Make Good' On Promises

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold returned Sunday to a chorus of praise and certainty of Security Council approval for his month's Middle East negotiations on Israeli-Arab peace.

He told newsmen and diplomats at New York's Idlewild Airport that it is now up to the Middle East governments to make good on cease-fire pledges he has obtained from Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

"Only the future can show what, thanks to the good will of the governments concerned, may grow out of this unique assignment," he said.

Declines Answers
He declined to answer questions about his final report to the Council before he makes it public later this week. The extent of the cease-fire pledges will not be generally known until then.

Only one minor clash, on the Jordan-Israeli line, was reported this morning—the first in 48 hours. Security Council meetings are scheduled tentatively for the week of May 13. This will give the 11 Council powers time to study the report and ask their home capitals for instructions.

At that time it will also be learned how far-reaching are plans of Hammarskjold and his true supervisor chief, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, to beef up U.N. observer patrols, withdraw opposing border forces and set up barriers along demarcation lines.

The Greeting Party
Representatives of the Western Big Three and the Yugoslav president of the Security Council were at the airport to meet him, as was Hans Engen of Norway, president of the Economic and Social Council.

Present also were representatives of the Middle East countries. They had seen him off April 4 on his mission, ordered by the Security Council. But no Russian was on hand, nor was the Jordan representative who normally is stationed in Washington.

Nor did the Russians issue any congratulatory statement through the U.N. as did the United States, France, Britain, and Joza Brilej of Yugoslavia, president of the Security Council this month. Brilej will call the Council into session after conferences with Hammarskjold and other delegations.

There have been private assurances, however, that the Russians were satisfied with the Hammarskjold mission, partly because it took settlement out of the hands of the Western Big Three and put it back into the Security Council, where the Russians have veto power and have used it twice to help the Arab cause.

As Hammarskjold worked on his final report, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said the Western Big Three foreign ministers meeting in Paris agreed they should pigeonhole their 1950 declaration of overzealousness for the Middle East and let the U.N. handle the Palestine peace question from now on.

U.N. BEST HOPE FOR MID-EAST

... Dulles

PARIS (P)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles agreed with Britain and France Sunday that the way to bring peace to the Middle East is through the U.N. Security Council—where any decision risk a Russian veto. Then he took a plane for home.

The French view was that the decision scrapped the 1950 Big Three declaration on the Middle East. But American sources said the 1950 statement would still hold good if U.N. peace efforts failed.

The decision, already foreshadowed by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's cease-fire mission, acknowledges that the Soviet Union must have a big say in the Middle East. This was made inevitable by Egypt's acceptance of large-scale arms aid from behind the Iron Curtain.

Talked Two Hours
Dulles talked for two hours Sunday with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lord. Later, Pineau told reporters they had decided their three countries could no longer act under their six-year-old guarantee of the cease-fire line in Israel, which Russia did not join. The 1950 agreement, he said, no longer corresponds to the situation.

High American sources did not quite agree. They said the three-power agreement was subject to the members' responsibility to the United Nations. It now seemed more likely, they said, that Arab-Israeli issues could be settled in the Security Council. But they emphasized that the 1950 pact still stands in case U.N. efforts fail.

Americans said the Big Three had moved closer to common policies on the Middle East, but there was still at least one basic difference: The United States does not want to see a general embargo on arms to the area; Pineau said France would favor one.

Foster Skeptic On Whooping Crane Report

A report of a flock of rare Whooping Cranes in the Louisville area along the Platte River brought skepticism from Acting Game Commissioner Glen R. Foster who pointed out that the birds were of the almost extinct variety.

However, he said a crew of men will be sent into the area Monday to investigate.

The report reached The Star from a Lincoln woman who said she spotted "about two dozen" of them on the river about one mile north of Louisville Sunday afternoon.

She said three of four other autos were stopped and their occupants were watching the huge birds through binoculars. Although she was unable to get close to the birds, she added, they appeared larger than similar types.

Foster said the birds, during their migratory flight north, generally do not pass this far east in the state. He added that they seldom migrate in such large flocks.

Since there are only 28 known birds in existence of this type, he doubted the ones spotted were Whooping Cranes.

The birds are so rare they are protected by the federal government.

CARROLL AND LAURENCE EMBRACE (AP)

'Gem Of Desert' Sees, Adores 'Dream' Fiance

... Mail Order Romance

By WILTON WYNN
CAIRO, Egypt (P)—The romance of two young lovers who had never seen each other stood the test of a face-to-face meeting in Cairo's airport Sunday.

Laurence Shaker, shapely, green-eyed, 22-year-old Cairo secretary, fell into the arms of American radio announcer Carroll H. Pederson Jr., 26, when he arrived here to claim the sweetheart he had wooed and won through letters and tape recordings.

Laurence agreed to marry Pederson after an exchange of letters, photos and tape recordings and they expect to be married in Cairo's All Saints Cathedral next week. Then they will honeymoon at Mersa Matruh, a spot on the Mediterranean where Cleopatra once bathed.

When he stepped down from the plane in the early hours, Pederson smothered his mail order fiancée with kisses and declared, "I can't believe it's true. I am sure it's a dream. Probably when I wake tomorrow, I'll think I'm still in California."

Laurence's sister, Colette broke through a police cordon at the plane to kiss Pederson and so, it was followed by Laurence's father, mother, brother and other members of the family. In front of the airport, an Arab band beat drums and played flutes while Arabs danced to welcome the bridegroom.

Laurence, whom Pederson calls "Gem of the Desert" and "princess of the Nile," works at the TWA office in Cairo.

"It's very strange," she commented, "we seem to agree on everything. It almost seems we were predestined."

"Any one who listened to his recordings would have fallen in love with him," Colette told a reporter. Pederson, a radio announcer from Salinas, Calif., fell in love with Laurence over a distance of 9,000 miles when he met her brother, who works with Egyptian merchant marine in New York, and heard her described.

That was in January. A romance of letters and tape recordings followed, climaxed by the engagement. The couple expects to live in the United States after their marriage.

Showers, Drizzle Slated For West

Little temperature change is indicated for Nebraska for Monday according to Weather Bureau forecasts. The forecasts also call for scattered light rain or drizzle in the west.

Skies are to be mostly cloudy through Monday night with warming trends in the west and north by Tuesday. Scattered light showers may continue in the west Tuesday afternoon, the Weather Bureau said.

Temperatures Monday are expected to be generally in the lower 60s.

Traces of precipitation fell Sunday at Lincoln, Omaha, Scottsbluff and Valentine, the Weather Bureau reported.

Waives Right To Appeal GRAHAM ASKS TO DIE 'AS SOON AS POSSIBLE'

DENVER (P)—A signed affidavit by condemned murderer John Gilbert Graham, 24, requests that he be put to death in Colorado's gas chamber as soon as possible.

A District Court jury of seven men and five women convicted Graham of killing his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King, 55, by dynamiting a commercial airliner. The crash took 44 lives.

The jurors recommended Graham, the father of two small children, be executed, and in his affidavit written in the presence of witnesses in his jail cell Sunday, Graham said, in part:

"I accept the verdict of the jury and desire that it be carried out with all convenient speed. This is my wish. I have been advised by my attorneys that under the law the sentence of death requires that it be appealed to the highest (court) of this state.

"I desire to waive that provision of law."

Dist. Judge Joseph M. McDonald, who heard Graham's 17-day trial, will receive the convicted slayer's execution request tomorrow, along with the motion for the new trial.

Graham professed his innocence immediately after the jury verdict, reached in a little more than an hour's time. Guards said he has eaten little since the verdict, spending most of his time lying on his bunk staring at the ceiling.

As 'Shot' Is Again Put Back

COULD SHAKE CITY TO BITS

By ELTON C. FAY
ABOARD USS MT. McKinley, Bikini Atoll (AP)

—A nuclear bomb exploded at ground level could shake a city to pieces with its earthquake-like concussion.

This was one of the new details of the tremendous power of the H-bomb made known to newsmen Sunday after bad weather forced postponement of a massive hydrogen blast scheduled for Tuesday.

The big H-bomb air-drop trial was reset tentatively for Wednesday — Tuesday, U.S. time. But Dr. William E. Ogle, acting scientific test director of Joint Task Force 7, told newsmen he would not be surprised if weather forced postponement to as late as May 15.

Little Said
Until now, little has been said about the earthquake-like effect of the nuclear bomb, which also destroys and kills by blast, heat flash, instantaneous radiation and the slow poison of radioactive contamination.

But newsmen, invited to the mid-Pacific proving ground to witness the scheduled test shot of an air-dropped H-weapon and inspect the area, learned some of the things the scientists have discovered about this little-discussed matter.

Detonation of an H-bomb at ground level produces a special effect which virtually makes of it a new weapon — a sort of Q-bomb for creating an earthquake.

Saw Examples
The visiting newsmen and Civil Defense observers saw some examples of what a surface detonation can do. They looked down from a plane into the mighty crater ripped out by the big 1954 H-bomb explosion.

Indigo blue water filled a two-mile-wide cavity where an island of the Bikini Atoll once stood. Crushed coral and sand were piled in mounds along the lagoon side of the crater, thrown out by the mighty blast.

Some indications of the far-reaching effect of this earth-shaking blast came from Atomic Energy Commission scientists. Dr. Gaellen L. Felt, who heads the scientific test group, said in answer to a question that he had observed definite earthquakes while in a concrete bunker on Enyu Island during surface explosions of thermonuclear weapons.

20 Miles Away
Surface detonations are conducted on the northern perimeter of the atoll—20 miles from the bunker on Enyu Island.

Civil Defense experts estimate that even a two-inch movement of a brick building in an earthquake can bring it tumbling down.

From the visible evidence and the cautious answers of the nuclear weapons people, it seems possible that the radius of total or heavy destruction by artificial earthquake might be up to eight or ten miles.

Added to this would be the result of the lateral blast of the bomb, its deadly radiation and the heat from the flash. However, the scope of these three effects would be less than that produced in an air burst.

What Happens?
What happens to you when a bomb blasts off as you stand amid the maze of controls and instruments in the thick-walled safety of the bunker, as the shock wave and quake effect race by?

Felt says "nothing at all," explaining that we "just push buttons and watch lights."

He says the men in the bunker never see even a trace of the unearthly light from the exploding bomb. The sudden rush of air pushed outward by the explosion drops the air pressure in the bunker for a moment, causing the ears to crackle as in a sudden descent of a plane from high altitude.

Postponement of the Tuesday H-weapon drop was ordered because teststers want to be sure the radioactive fallout does not drift outside the established danger zone as it did during the 1954 tests.

Johnson's Victory Gives Him Firm Control Of Texas Democrats

SHIVERS FORCED TO BOW

DALLAS, Tex. (U. S. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson Sunday held control of the Texas Democratic party by virtue of a smashing victory over Gov. Allan Shivers for chairman of the state's delegation to the National Democratic Convention.

Johnson's 4-1 victory in the precinct conventions, first step in selecting delegates to the National convention, also meant that the Texas delegation to this year's convention will be pledged to support the party's presidential nominee.

As delegation chairman in 1952, Shivers refused to support Adlai Stevenson. He backed President Eisenhower and carried the state into the Republican column.

Boosts Candidacy

Johnson's victory also gave added impetus to his "favorite son" candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson, resting at his ranch home on the Pedernales River, 65 miles west of Austin, withheld comment Sunday.

Aides said he had a good night's sleep and was in high spirits. They said he received telephone calls from all parts of the country congratulating him on his victory.

Meanwhile Gov. Shivers said: "It is apparent from reports reaching my office that the Johnson forces won firm control of the May 22 state convention.

"The outcome is disappointing to me, of course, but my heart is full of gratitude to the tremendous number of good Texans who stood firm against great odds for states rights.

"In key cities the effectively organized forces of union labor carried the day. I congratulate them upon a superior piece of organizational work and upon their victory."

Shivers said a majority of the voters expressed themselves in favor of principles with which he is not in accord and added:

"I respect their verdict, although it does not change my personal views. I shall continue to oppose that which I consider to be harmful and support what I think is best for Texas."

Shivers referred to comment by Johnson last night on the precinct conventions in which the senator said: "Let demagogues everywhere listen and take notice."

'Let Time Judge'

Shivers said Sunday, "In reference to Senator Johnson's statement I have only this comment: Time will be the real judge of this issue. I am perfectly willing to let time determine which is the demagogue."

Shivers has said that he would not be bound prior to this year's National Convention to support its nominee for president. He also had said that Adlai Stevenson was still unacceptable to him as the Democratic presidential candidate.

To Texas liberals and to those Democrats who considered themselves "loyalists" rather than liberals, yesterday's crushing rejection of Shivers and the triumph of Johnson meant the end of the underdog role which they have been forced to play since anti-New Deal conservatives gained control of the state Democratic machinery in 1944.

To Shivers, the defeat was the first he had ever suffered in his long career as state senator, as lieutenant governor and as governor, a post which he has held longer than any man in Texas history. Shivers is retiring from his third term as governor.

He had announced he would not again seek public office but would devote his efforts against what he termed the federal usurpation of states' rights. Resolutions which Shivers had urged—resolutions for interposition by which a state protests federal acts as an invasion of states rights and for the restoration of the two-thirds rule in the National Convention which would give added power to conservative Southern states—were voted down or never even brought to the floor as opposing forces swept the conventions.

To Sam Rayburn, veteran speaker of the national House who is "Mr. Democrat" in Texas, the convention results provided one of the greatest personal triumphs in his long career.

The real leader behind the scenes, Rayburn has long battled the conservatives that have controlled the state organization and the fight between him and Shivers had become a bitter, personal one.

SNIPER SUSPECT NAMED AS ONE DEAD, FIVE HURT

NEW YORK (U. S. A. "disgruntled dissenter" and a heavy drinker, who has lived in the neighborhood of St. Dumitru's Romanian Orthodox church for 20 years and rented the room across from the church five weeks ago.

The service, attended by some 400 persons, many of them Romanian refugees, broke up in screaming panic.

Police sought Tony Tudorache, 60, occupant of the strategically located room where detectives found a rifle and four boxes of shells.

'Trained Agent'

The Very Rev. Florian Caldau, the church's anti-Communist pastor, who may have been an intended victim, said Tudorache was a "trained agent" of the Communists, and had been sent to make trouble.

Father Caldau, who has made broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain for Radio Free Europe, said Tudorache "has threatened me and very many others of the congregation."

But police insisted that Tudorache was only a bitter church dissenter, and denied any Communist angle to the shooting.

Cop Scoffs

"Let's not make a foreign intrigue drama out of this," said Detective Chief James Leggett.

The shots also may have been intended for Romania's former Princess Ileana, sister of the late King Carol, who attended the midnight church procession with her husband.

Tudorache, also known as Tony Savas and Costachi Mihalachi, was said by the priest to have objected last week to hanging a picture of the late Queen Marie of Romania in an exhibition of peasant art at the church.

Police described Tudorache as

Housing Standards Section Detailed

City Planning Engineer Douglas Brogden has given assurance that the controversial Section 8 of the proposed new minimum standards housing ordinance does not apply to existing structures.

That is the section which controls the use of cellars and basements for living quarters, the size of rooms, window area and ventilation. Structures in existence at the time of the effective date of the ordinance would not have to meet the standards of that section, Brogden said.

However, as the ordinance now reads, any existing structure which is altered or remodeled to an extent equal in value to 30 per cent or more of the county assessed value of the property would then have to comply with all sections and provisions of the ordinance.

The City Planning Commission anticipates recommending the ordinance for approval to the City Council by May 23.

Stock Market Fire Damage To Be Fixed By Monday

NEW YORK (U. S. A. —The New York Stock Exchange said Sunday all of its fire-damaged communication equipment would be repaired in time for the opening of business Monday.

G. Keith Funston, president of the Exchange, said business would be conducted normally with all services back in operation.

Work crews averaging 100 men have been laboring around the clock since Friday night to repair the complicated wiring system.

The blaze, breaking out after the close of business, ate through 7,200 wires that carry stock quotations to brokerage houses.

Boy, 6, Found Alive; 24 Hours On Mountain

MONTROSE, Calif. (U. S. A. —Sheriff's searchers Sunday night reported finding George B. Storey III, 6, alive in a canyon on the slope of mile-high Mt. Wilson. The boy had been missing nearly 29 hours when discovered just before dark.

The search party, reporting by radio, did not give the boy's condition. He was found two miles northwest of the summit in Strays Canyon.

The rescue squad said he was being taken to the nearest U. S. Forest Service Ranger station at Red Box Canyon.

The lad was found as the search was about to be called off because of darkness.

Looking For A Deer

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Storey Jr., of nearby Altadena, wandered away from a family picnic Saturday "to look for a deer."

He survived near-freezing temperatures overnight on the mountain.

The family motored to the mountain top, site of a famed observatory, on an outing yesterday. The boy disappeared about 3 p.m.

More than 50 deputies searched through the night on steep, timber-covered slopes.

Orange-helmeted searchers descended 2,000 feet by rope down the rugged side of fog-filled Winter Creek Canyon, below the peak.

Deputies were aided by members of several mountaineering clubs.

Parents Prayed

The child's parents prayed throughout the night at search headquarters. The father is a machinist, 47. He said they waited through 14 years of marriage for their son.

The boy was wearing only light clothing—blue jeans, a shirt, sweater and sandals. Temperatures dipped into the low 40s during the night.

The helicopter from the sheriff's Aero Squadron was put into service at dawn but was hampered by clouds swirling around the peak in the San Gabriel Mountains.

The scene is about 25 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

U.S. Review Planned On Disarmament

WASHINGTON (U. S. A. — Presidential assistant Harold E. Stassen said Sunday the United States soon will embark on a broad review of its disarmament policies. He said he expects Russia to do likewise.

Returning by plane from United Nations disarmament talks in London, Stassen said another look at arms control policies is called for in the light of the London sessions.

Stassen, who is President Eisenhower's top adviser on disarmament, said he will report to the President in a few days. They will review the recent negotiations and presumably map plans for restudy of American policy.

Stassen was chief U. S. delegate at the seven-week London meeting of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee. Other nations represented were the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Canada.

"I believe there is going to be a restudy in Moscow of their policies," Stassen told a newsmen, "and we here will be reviewing ours."

Algerians Ambush Two French Units

ALGIERS, Algeria (U. S. A. —Algerian rebels ambushed two groups of French soldiers in Eastern Algeria and were reported to have suffered heavy losses in the ensuing clash.

The French army reported two soldiers of the first group were missing and a third one seriously wounded. Losses, if any, among the second group were not known here.

It was announced another clash in the same area resulted in 13 French soldiers killed, one missing and 13 seriously wounded.

Science Learns How To Stop Asthma Attacks

Doctors Find New Tiny Tablet Gives Relief In Minutes... Lasts For Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special) — Medical science has developed a new, tiny tablet that stops asthma attacks in minutes... and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

Authoritative medical tests have proved that this remarkable compound brings blessed relief in mere minutes... relief that lasts for hours.

This fast-acting formula is provided more than any other by doctors for their private patients. And now asthma sufferers can obtain this formula—without prescription—in tiny, easy-to-take tablets called Primatene.

New Primatene helps relieve asthma spasms these important ways: (1) opens bronchial tubes so that breathing is natural; (2) loosens mucous congestion; (3) relieves taut, nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections, and without the inconvenience of nebulizers.

The secret of Primatene is that it combines 3 medicines found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each medicine performs a special purpose.

Primatene is available at all drug stores. The price is only 93¢ for a bottle of twenty-four tablets. And remember—if not entirely satisfied, your money will be refunded promptly.

So, look forward to sleep at night and freedom from anxiety by day. Get Primatene, today!

Johnson's Victory Gives Him Firm Control Of Texas Democrats

SHIVERS FORCED TO BOW

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—U. S. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson Sunday held control of the Texas Democratic party by virtue of a smashing victory over Gov. Allan Shivers for chairman of the state's delegation to the National Democratic Convention.

Johnson's 4-1 victory in the precinct conventions, first step in selecting delegates to the National convention, also meant that the Texas delegation to this year's convention will be pledged to support the party's presidential nominee.

As delegation chairman in 1952, Shivers refused to support Adlai Stevenson. He backed President Eisenhower and carried the state into the Republican column.

Boosts Candidacy
Johnson's victory also gave added impetus to his "favorite son" candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson, resting at his ranch home on the Pedernales River, 65 miles west of Austin, withheld comment Sunday.

Aides said he had a good night's sleep and was in high spirits. They said he received telephone calls from all parts of the country congratulating him on his victory. Meanwhile Gov. Shivers said:

"It is apparent from reports reaching my office that the Johnson forces won firm control of the May 22 state convention.

"The outcome is disappointing to me, of course, but my heart is full of gratitude to the tremendous number of good Texans who stood firm against great odds for states rights.

"In key cities the effectively organized forces of union labor carried the day. I congratulate them upon a superior piece of organizational work and upon their victory."

Shivers said a majority of the voters expressed themselves in favor of principles with which he is not in accord and added:

"I respect their verdict, although it does not change my personal views. I shall continue to oppose that which I consider to be harmful and support what I think is best for Texas."

Shivers referred to comment by Johnson last night on the precinct conventions in which the senator said: "Let demagogues everywhere listen and take notice."

'Let Time Judge'
Shivers said Sunday, "In reference to Senator Johnson's statement I have only this comment: Time will be the real judge of this issue. I am perfectly willing to let time determine which is the demagogue."

Shivers has said that he would not be bound prior to this year's National Convention to support its nominee for president. He also had said that Adlai Stevenson was still unacceptable to him as the Democratic presidential candidate.

To Texas liberals and to those Democrats who considered themselves "loyalists" rather than liberals, yesterday's crushing rejection of Shivers and the triumph of Johnson meant the end of the underdog role which they have been forced to play since anti-New Deal conservatives gained control of the state Democratic machinery in 1944.

To Shivers, the defeat was the first he had ever suffered in his long career as state senator, as lieutenant governor and as governor, a post which he has held longer than any man in Texas history. Shivers is retiring from his third term as governor.

He had announced he would not again seek public office but would devote his efforts against what he termed the federal usurpation of states' rights. Resolutions which Shivers had urged—resolutions for interposition by which a state protests federal acts as an invasion of states rights and for the restoration of the two-thirds rule in the National Convention which would give added power to conservative Southern states—were voted down or never even brought to the floor as opposing forces swept the conventions.

To Sam Rayburn, veteran speaker of the national House who is "Mr. Democrat" in Texas, the convention results provided one of the greatest personal triumphs in his long career.

The real leader behind the scenes, Rayburn has long battled the conservatives that have controlled the state organization and the fight between him and Shivers had become a bitter, personal one.

JOHNSON ... THE WINNER

SHIVERS ... THE LOSER

SNIPER SUSPECT NAMED AS ONE DEAD, FIVE HURT

NEW YORK (AP)—A sniper, shooting from a rooming house across the street, pumped bullets into an Easter procession entering an Eastern Orthodox church, killing one person and wounding five.

The service, attended by some 400 persons, many of them Romanian refugees, broke up in screaming panic.

Police sought Tony Tudorache, 60, occupant of the strategically located room where detectives found a rifle and four boxes of shells.

'Trained Agent'
The Very Rev. Florian Caldau, the church's anti-Communist pastor, who may have been an intended victim, said Tudorache was a "trained agent" of the Communists, and had been sent to make trouble.

Father Caldau, who has made broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain for Radio Free Europe, said Tudorache "has threatened me and very many others of the congregation."

But police insisted that Tudorache was only a bitter church dissenter, and denied any Communist angle to the shooting.

Cop Scoops
"Let's not make a foreign intrigue drama out of this," said Detective Chief James Leggett.

The shots also may have been intended for Romania's former Princess Elena, sister of the late King Carol, who attended the midnight church procession with her husband.

Tudorache, also known as Tony Savas and Costachi Mihalachi, was said by the priest to have objected last week to hanging a picture of the late Queen Marie of Romania in an exhibition of peasant art at the church.

Police described Tudorache as

Memorial Theater Dedicated To Late J. Vernon Clemans

Lincoln Star Special

WEST SEATTLE, Wash. — A memorial theater has been dedicated here in memory of the late J. Vernon Clemans, former Nebraskan who died in January.

Clemans, who was 45 at the time of his death, was a well-known Washington attorney and prominent West Seattle civic leader. Clemans was born at Peru, Neb., and held degrees from Nebraska Wesleyan University and the University of Nebraska.

While at Wesleyan he was president of the student body and Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, and was a football, basketball and track star.

The J. Vernon Clemans Memorial Theater, dedicated April 25, is located at the Veterans Hospital in Seattle. Clemans was a charter member of an organization created to raise funds for hospitalized veterans.

Pro-Communist To Head Church

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The newspaper of the Conservative and Catholic Austrian People's party, Das Kleine Volksblatt, said a pro-Communist church official has been elected administrator of the Hungarian archdiocese of Eger. The election became necessary because of the recent death of Dr. Gyula Czapik, Roman Catholic archbishop of Eger.

Stock Market Fire Damage To Be Fixed By Monday

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange said Sunday all of its fire-damaged communication equipment would be repaired in time for the opening of business Monday.

G. Keith Funston, president of the Exchange, said business would be conducted normally with all services back in operation.

Work crews averaging 100 men have been laboring around the clock since Friday night to repair the complicated wiring system.

The blaze, breaking out after the close of business, ate through 7,200 wires that carry stock quotations to brokerage houses.

Boy, 6, Found Alive; 24 Hours On Mountain

MONTROSE, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's searchers Sunday night reported finding George B. Storey III, 6, alive in a canyon on the slope of mile-high Mt. Wilson. The boy had been missing nearly 29 hours when discovered just before dark.

The search party, reporting by radio, did not give the boy's condition. He was found two miles northwest of the summit in Strays Canyon.

The rescue squad said he was being taken to the nearest U.S. Forest Service Ranger station at Red Box Canyon.

The lad was found as the search was about to be called off because of darkness.

Looking For A Deer

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Storey Jr., of nearby Altadena, wandered away from a family picnic Saturday "to look for a deer." He survived near-freezing temperatures overnight on the mountain.

The family motored to the mountain top, site of a famed observatory, on an outing yesterday. The boy disappeared about 3 p.m.

More than 50 deputies searched through the night on steep, timber-covered slopes.

Orange-helmeted searchers descended 2,000 feet by rope down the rugged side of fog-filled Winter Creek Canyon, below the peak.

Deputies were aided by members of several mountaineering clubs.

Parents Prayed
The child's parents prayed throughout the night at search headquarters. The father is a machinist, 47. He said they waited through 14 years of marriage for their son.

The boy was wearing only light clothing—blue jeans, a shirt, sweater and sandals. Temperatures dipped into the low 40s during the night.

The helicopter from the sheriff's Aero Squadron was put into service at dawn but was hampered by clouds swirling around the peak in the San Gabriel Mountains.

The scene is about 25 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

U.S. Review Planned On Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential assistant Harold E. Stassen said Sunday the United States soon will embark on a broad review of its disarmament policies. He said he expects Russia to do likewise.

Returning by plane from United Nations disarmament talks in London, Stassen said another look at arms control policies is called for in the light of the London sessions. Stassen, who is President Eisenhower's top adviser on disarmament, said he will report to the President in a few days. They will review the recent negotiations and presumably map plans for restudy of American policy.

Stassen was chief-U. S. delegate at the seven-week London meeting of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee. Other nations represented were the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Canada.

"I believe there is going to be a restudy in Moscow of their policies," Stassen told a newsmen, "and we here will be reviewing ours."

Science Learns How To Stop Asthma Attacks

Doctors Find New Tiny Tablet Gives Relief In Minutes... Lasts For Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—Medical science has developed a new, tiny tablet that stops asthma attacks... and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

Authoritative medical tests have proved that this remarkable compound brings blessed relief in mere minutes... relief that lasts for hours.

This fast-acting formula is prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients. And now asthma sufferers can obtain this formula—without prescription—in tiny, easy-to-take tablets called Primatene.

New Primatene helps relieve asthma spasms these important ways: (1) opens bronchial tubes so that breathing is natural; (2) loosens mucous congestion; (3) relieves taut, nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections, and without the inconvenience of nebulizers.

The secret of Primatene is that it combines 3 medicines found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each medicine performs a special purpose.

Primatene is available at all drug stores. The price is only 98¢ for a bottle of twenty-four tablets. And remember—if not entirely satisfied, your money will be refunded promptly.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from anxiety by day. Get Primatene, today!

Federal Worker, Suspended As Risk, Contacted By Commie

WASHINGTON (U)—A federal government employee under security suspension without pay said Sunday he was approached by a man he identified as a Soviet Embassy official to gather material on the American aircraft industry.

Sidney Hatkin, 40, of Washington, said he was contacted after placing an advertisement in a newspaper seeking employment. He said he rejected the offer after reporting the whole affair to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hatkin, a civilian economist for the Air Force, pointed up the incident in relating his tribulations in looking for work while his security suspension case awaited final action for a period of more than a year.

Senator's Speech

Details of Hatkin's case were disclosed in a New York speech by former Sen. Harry P. Cain as an instance of hardships inflicted upon such employees due to the time allowed to pass before final action is taken.

It also indicated, Cain said, the hazard the nation faces in throwing such persons open to Soviet approaches. While the agent in this case failed, Cain said, it does not follow that others "will not be successful in future attempts to find American spies to serve Soviet purposes."

Cain, former Republican senator from Washington, now is a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

In his address before the Jewish Labor Committee in New York, Cain withheld Hatkin's name. However, Hatkin's identity became known in Washington and he and his attorney, Joseph H. Freehill, held a news conference in Freehill's office Sunday.

Was Suspicious

Hatkin said he became suspicious when, a week after he had placed his ad for a job, he received an "unusual phone call" from a man who refused to give his name, his place of business and who spoke with a "heavy foreign accent."

That was back on Feb. 13, Hatkin received the man at home the next day.

"I asked him his name," said Hatkin. "He grudgingly gave it. It sounded like Machoff."

Hatkin said he gave the man a resume of his qualifications and told him he was under suspension as a government employee but was available for free lance statistical work.

To Gather Data

The proffered job, Hatkin said, was one of compiling data on the aircraft industry concerning its economic tendency, industrial capacity and actual production. The visitor identified himself as a student at the University of Maryland who had need for the research data.

Hatkin meanwhile contacted

Freehill and later the FBI offering his services to "be a lure to lead this guy on." The offer was refused "with thanks."

An FBI agent brought a batch of photographs to Hatkin's home by Feb. 23. From the pictures, Hatkin said he identified his suspicious caller. The agent, said Hatkin, declared the man's name to be "Methow," a clerk and translator at the Soviet Embassy.

Returned $25

Hatkin said the agent called again the next day. This time Hatkin refused to do business with him and returned a $25 initial fee. The entire episode was put in the form of an affidavit and sent to the Air Force, said Hatkin.

Freehill said "security risk" charges first were brought against Hatkin in September 1948, during the Truman administration when he worked in the Bureau of Census. Hatkin cleared himself at a hearing, said Freehill.

The charges involved being a member of the Washington Bookshop, termed at one time a Communist front; being associated with a "Win the Peace" conference some years ago, and being associated with persons associated with the Communist party.

STANTON DELAPLANE

POSTCARD

This morning dawned clear and warm (for a change) in New York. From my window I can see a couple of red-breasted robins talking over the situation in Central Park. And a red-breasted doorman is arguing with a taxi driver.

This is the hour of the strolling poodle and the pedigreed corgi. The apartment size pet with the disdain of a Duchess and sleek as a Madison Avenue account executive.

At this hour they descend on the leash to sniff the breeze off the park. The doorman pats their little barbed heads. They lift an aristocratic lip and sneer at him. Then they trot off with Madame in tow crying: "Now, now, Falrood II. Slow down. They all have elegant names. It is great to be alive this morning. But greater if you are a rich dog."

My colleagues who toil in midtown Manhattan think I am a little odd because I stay at a hotel on 81st and Fifth avenue. Life lies between 42nd and 59th and not a step further.

"What, 81st? Why that's way out by the Museum!"

"Opposite the Museum."

"Is it good?" They figure there must be an angle. Everybody has an angle in New York. "Take long to get downtown?"

"About five minutes."

"But all that traffic..."

That is the whole point. I can't sleep in traffic. At home when a car drives up the road, it means something. It means the milk is arriving. Or the paper is being delivered. Or visitors. Or at least someone has lost his way. You can go down and talk things over and direct him.

But in Manhattan midtown, the taxis double-clutch under the windows all night long. For a person who lives there, I imagine it is a comforting sound. It means the city is operating. Not yet atom bombed. You can jump in a taxi and ride around the block.

In the midst of this throaty roar of the city, New York slumbers peacefully. Filled with sleeping assurance that they are in direct touch with the Stork Club.

Not me. Each passing taxi pulls me awake to listen for something to happen.

Consequently I stay up town. Across from Central Park. Where in the daytime you can observe lovers, robins, daisy pickers, poetry readers, strollers, bpaters, children, loafers and policemen on horses.

At night in Central Park you can be backed by the hour in a horse-

York Woman On U.S. Methodist Segregation Study

MINNEAPOLIS (U)—Mrs. Wayne Harrington of York, Neb., Sunday was named as one of the 70 members of a 70-man commission which is to study racial segregation in the Methodist Church and recommend new ways of dealing with it.

The study was voted by the church's general conference, and followed legislation that permits voluntary merging of the church's segregated administrative system. The commission includes bishops, ministers and laymen from each of the church's five geographical jurisdictions in the country.

drawn back. You can walk on grass and scarcely hear the city. Your friends will think you odd. But the district has plenty of class.

All our hotels and apartment houses have green awnings from the doorway to the street. The numbers and names are lettered in white. The doormen are clad in matching greens.

In the morning, I can look along the hallway and see a New York Times in front of every door. I snatch in my copy of the New York Herald Tribune before the neighbors awake. I think they might suspect I was a little pinko.

The tabloid Daily Mirror and News are not delivered in our exclusive corridors. You have to go around the corner to the drug store. The real blatter sheets are not even sold in the neighborhood.

"What do you do up there?" my downtown friends ask.

"The usual things. Sleep, read, have dinner."

"They have a restaurant?"

"One in the hotel. One in the Metropolitan Museum."

"Well, whadya know?"

Everybody in midtown knows that a famous bookie once operated in the Metropolitan Museum. Taking bets on the pay phones. But that was when the heat was on. Strictly an emergency.

The funny thing is, the bookie inadvertently swallowed a terrific knowledge of art while wandering between bets. And has never been quite the same since. Midtown looks on the whole proposition as dangerous.

3 Drown When Houseboat Sinks In Arkansas Lake

HUGHES, Ark. (U)—A 20-foot steel houseboat sank in Horseshoe Lake Sunday and three persons drowned. Eight others escaped.

T. H. McGough, coroner, said the houseboat sank when water poured into the hull through a faulty bathroom fixture.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Akin, Proctor, Ark., and Robert E. Cunningham, 33, who farmed near Hughes.

A survivor, J. C. Williams, West Memphis, Ark., said the party decided to take the houseboat out from the bank and fish.

Soon after anchoring, he said, Akin came out of the bathroom and shouted that water was pouring into the hull. The houseboat capsized while Williams and M.H. Jamieson were cutting loose an auxiliary boat. The boat also overturned.

At night in Central Park you can be backed by the hour in a horse-

TOP POLISH RED QUIT

... For Mistakes

V I E N N A, Austria (U)—Jacob Berman, considered by many the No. 1 man of Communist Poland, has resigned as deputy premier because of his "mistakes," Moscow radio said Sunday night.

A Tass message broadcast by Moscow said Berman also stepped down from his job on the Politburo of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party.

Berman's ouster climaxed the current purge in the Polish government. Six Cabinet ministers and three top justice officials have been booted from power.

None As Powerful

However, none of those removed had the stature of Berman. He was reputed to have influence far beyond that normally held by a deputy premier in Eastern Europe.

Berman's ouster surprised students of communism in Vienna. So far as is known here, he had not been under attack in the Polish press and radio.

Some officials believed his ouster may have been a post mortem kick at Boleslaw Beirut, Poland's top Communist who died March 12. Berman was considered Beirut's right-hand man.

The Tass message did not detail any charges against Berman.

Leading 1st District Candidates Show Similarity In Background

By JOHN CHAPMAN

Associated Press Writer

As a result of the voting in the coming primaries, the First District Congressional race next fall could be a contest between two young Southeast Nebraska business men with an inherent interest in politics and agriculture.

On the Republican side, Rep. Phil Weaver of Falls City, now in his first term in Congress, is seeking nomination May 15 for reelection. He is 37 years old.

Before going into politics, as a candidate for office, he was an automobile dealer. And while he personally was not at the game, there was politics in his background.

His father was governor of Nebraska in 1929-30, and had run for senator. His brother had been a candidate for governor, and had gone as a delegate to the party's national convention.

The Weavers have long had farming interests.

Odell Businessman

A probable opponent for the Falls Cityan is Democrat Clair Callan of Odell. The 36-year-old candidate inherits his interest in politics from his late father, John Callan, who served six sessions in the Legislature and was a candidate for Congress in 1942.

The son now runs the family implement business at Odell, and operates a livestock farm.

Clair Callan has been a county chairman, while Phil Weaver was secretary-treasurer of his county central committee.

Callan is a Navy veteran. Weaver served in the Army. Callan was graduated from Peru State College, Weaver is a University of Nebraska graduate. Both men have families.

Opposition Nominal

Both men have nominal primary opposition.

For Weaver it is Richard W. Johnson, University of Nebraska agriculture senior from Fairbury, who said when he filed he did so for the opportunity it would afford to express his views on the farm problem.

Callan's opponent is the aging Samuel Freeman of Hubbell, son of the first homesteader and a candidate for his party's nomination for Congress in the 1950, 1952 and 1954 primaries.

Weaver systematically visited every county in the district while home last fall during the Congressional recess. Hence, his workers explain, he probably will not be in the state again before the primary because of his conviction a Congressman should stay close to Capitol Hill during the session.

Against Colleagues

He has taken an active interest in veterans' affairs and the farm situation. He consistently advocated high parity for farm prices, while his colleagues favored a lower level. He voted for the recent farm bill, and to override the Presidential veto, while other Nebraska members voted the other way.

Callan made his initial campaign speech at a meeting of Lancaster County Democrats here April 30.

'U' Plane Studies Flight 10 Miles Above The Earth

WASHINGTON, U. The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics Sunday announced the start of a new research program involving repeated and sustained airplane flights 10 miles above the earth.

The agency said it has already started the project with a new Lockheed jet plane, the U2, which makes it possible for the first time to gather high altitude information "in an economical and expeditious manner."

The U2 was built by Lockheed Aircraft Co., Burbank, Calif., with its own funds for testing engines, fuel systems, and materials in continuous flight at high altitudes. It is designed to gather information which no altitude pressure chamber laboratory could satisfactorily produce.

The plane, powered by a Pratt & Whitney J57 engine, carries a heavy load of instruments and flies at 50,000 feet as a matter of routine.

It is not a fighter or a bomber, but a type so new that the Air Force had to invent a designation for it—U for utility.

Federal Worker, Suspended As Risk, Contacted By Commie

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal government employee under security suspension without pay said Sunday he was approached by a man he identified as a Soviet Embassy official to gather material on the American aircraft industry.

Sidney Hatkin, 40, of Washington, said he was contacted after placing an advertisement in a newspaper seeking employment. He said he rejected the offer after reporting the whole affair to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hatkin, a civilian economist for the Air Force, pointed up the incident in relating his tribulations in looking for work while his security suspension case awaited final action for a period of more than a year.

Senator's Speech

Details of Hatkin's case were disclosed in a New York speech by former Sen. Harry P. Cain as an instance of hardships inflicted upon such employees due to the time allowed to pass before final action is taken.

It also indicated, Cain said, the hazard the nation faces in allowing such persons open to Soviet approaches. While the agent in this case failed, Cain said, it does not follow that others "will not be successful in future attempts to find American spies to serve Soviet purposes."

Cain, former Republican senator from Washington, now is a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

In his address before the Jewish Labor Committee in New York, Cain withheld Hatkin's name. However, Hatkin's identity became known in Washington and he and his attorney, Joseph H. Freehill, held a news conference in Freehill's office Sunday.

Was Suspicious

Hatkin said he became suspicious when, a week after he had placed his ad for a job, he received an "unusual phone call" from a man who refused to give his name, his place of business and who spoke with a "heavy foreign accent."

That was back on Feb. 13. Hatkin received the man at home the next day.

"I asked him his name," said Hatkin. "He grudgingly gave it. It sounded like Machoff."

Hatkin said he gave the man a resume of his qualifications and told him he was under suspension as a government employee but was available for free lance statistical work.

To Gather Data

The proffered job, Hatkin said, was one of compiling data on the aircraft industry concerning its economic tendency, industrial capacity and actual production. The visitor identified himself as a student at the University of Maryland who had need for the research data.

Hatkin meanwhile contacted

SIDNEY HATKIN

Freehill and later the FBI offering his services to "be a lure to lead this guy on." The offer was refused "with thanks."

An FBI agent brought a batch of photographs to Hatkin's home by Feb. 23. From the pictures, Hatkin said he identified his suspicious caller. The agent, said Hatkin, declared the man's name to be "Methiov", a clerk and translator at the Soviet Embassy.

Returned $25

Hatkin said the agent called again the next day. This time Hatkin refused to do business with him and returned a $25 initial fee. The entire episode was put in the form of an affidavit and sent to the Air Force, said Hatkin.

Freehill said "security risk" charges first were brought against Hatkin in September 1948, during the Truman administration when he worked in the Bureau of Census. Hatkin cleared himself at a hearing, said Freehill.

The charges involved being a member of the Washington Bookshop, termed at one time a Communist front; being associated with a "Win the Peace" conference some years ago, and being associated with persons associated with the Communist party.

STANTON DELAPLANE

POSTCARD

This morning dawned clear and warm (for a change) in New York. From my window I can see a couple of red-breasted robins talking over the situation in Central Park. And a red-breasted doorman is arguing with a taxi driver.

This is the hour of the strolling poodle and the pedigreed corgi. The apartment size pet with the disdain of a Duchess and sleek as a Madison avenue account executive.

At this hour they descend on the leash to sniff the breeze off the park. The doorman pats their little barbered heads. They lift an aristocratic lip and sneer at him. Then they trot off with Madame in tow crying: "Now, now, Falrood II. Slow down."

They all have elegant names. It is great to be alive this morning. But greater if you are a rich dog.

My colleagues who toil in midtown Manhattan think I am a little odd because I stay at a hotel on 81st and Fifth avenue. Life lies between 42nd and 59th and not a step further.

"What, 81st? Why that's way out by the Museum!"

"Opposite the Museum."

"Is it good?" They figure there must be an angle. Everybody has an angle in New York. "Take long to get downtown?"

"About five minutes."

"But all that traffic—"

That is the whole point. I can't sleep in traffic. At home when a car drives up the road, it means something. It means the milk is arriving. Or the paper is being delivered. Or visitors. Or at least someone has lost his way. You can go down and talk things over and direct him.

But in Manhattan midtown, the taxis double-clutch under the windows all night long. For a person who lives there, I imagine it is a comforting sound. It means the city is operating. Not yet atom bombed. You can jump in a taxi and ride around the block.

In the midst of this throaty roar of the city, New York slumbers peacefully. Filled with sleeping assurance that they are in direct touch with the Stork Club.

Not me. Each passing taxi pulls me awake to listen for something to happen.

Consequently I stay uptown. Across from Central Park. Where in the daytime you can observe lovers, robins, daisy pickers, poetry readers, strollers, bpaters, children, loafers and policemen on horses.

At night in Central Park you can be hacked by the hour in a horse-drawn hack. You can walk on grass and scarcely hear the city. Your friends will think you odd. But the district has plenty of class.

All our hotels and apartment houses have green awnings from the doorway to the street. The numbers and names are lettered in white. The doormen are clad in matching greens.

In the morning, I can look along the hallway and see a New York Times in front of every door. I snatch in my copy of the New York Herald Tribune before the neighbors awake. I think they might suspect I was a little pinko.

The tabloid Daily Mirror and News are not delivered in our exclusive corridors. You have to go around the corner to the drug store. The real blatter sheets are not even sold in the neighborhood.

"What do you do up there?" my downtown friends ask.

"The usual things. Sleep, read, have dinner."

"They have a restaurant?"

"One in the hotel. One in the Metropolitan Museum."

"Well, whadya know?"

Everybody in midtown knows that a famous bookie once operated in the Metropolitan Museum. Taking bets on the pay phones. But that was when the heat was on. Strictly an emergency.

The funny thing is, the bookie inadvertently swallowed a terrific knowledge of art while wandering between bets. And has never been quite the same since. Midtown looks on the whole proposition as dangerous.

3 Drown When Houseboat Sinks In Arkansas Lake

HUGHES, Ark. (AP)—A 20-foot steel houseboat sank in Horseshoe Lake Sunday and three persons drowned. Eight others escaped.

T. H. McGough, coroner, said the houseboat sank when water poured into the hull through a faulty bathroom fixture.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Akin, Proctor, Ark., and Robert E. Cunningham, 33, who farmed near Hughes.

A survivor, J. C. Williams, West Memphis, Ark., said the party decided to take the houseboat out from the bank and fish.

Soon after anchoring, he said, Akin came out of the bathroom and shouted that water was pouring into the hull. The houseboat capsized while Williams and M.H. Jamieson were cutting loose an auxiliary boat. The boat also overturned.

TOP POLISH RED QUIT

... For Mistakes

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Jacob Berman, considered by many the No. 1 man of Communist Poland, has resigned as deputy premier because of his "mistakes," Moscow radio said Sunday night.

A Tass message broadcast by Moscow said Berman also stepped down from his job on the Politburo of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party.

Berman's ouster climaxed the current purge in the Polish government. Six Cabinet ministers and three top justice officials have been booted from power.

None As Powerful

However, none of those removed had the stature of Berman. He was reputed to have influence far beyond that normally held by a deputy premier in Eastern Europe.

Berman's ouster surprised students of communism in Vienna. So far as is known here, he had not been under attack in the Polish press and radio.

Some officials believed his ouster may have been a post mortem kick at Boleslaw Beirut, Poland's top Communist who died March 12. Berman was considered Beirut's right-hand man.

The Tass message did not detail any charges against Berman.

Leading 1st District Candidates Show Similarity In Background

By JOHN CHAPMAN
Associated Press Writer

As a result of the voting in the coming primaries, the First District Congressional race next fall could be a contest between two young Southeast Nebraska business men with an inherent interest in politics and agriculture.

On the Republican side, Rep. Phil Weaver of Falls City, now in his first term in Congress, is seeking nomination May 15 for reelection. He is 37 years old.

Before going into politics, as a candidate for office, he was an automobile dealer. And while he personally was new at the game, there was politics in his background.

His father was governor of Nebraska in 1929-30, and had run for senator. His brother had been a candidate for governor, and had gone as a delegate to the party's national convention.

The Weavers have long had farming interests.

Odell Businessman

A probable opponent for the Falls Cityan is Democrat Clair Callan of Odell. The 36-year-old candidate inherits his interest in politics from his late father, John Callan, who served six sessions in the Legislature and was a candidate for Congress in 1942.

The son now runs the family implement business at Odell, and operates a livestock farm.

Clair Callan has been a county chairman, while Phil Weaver was secretary-treasurer of his county central committee.

Callan is a Navy veteran, Weaver served in the Army. Callan was graduated from Peru State College, Weaver is a University of Nebraska graduate. Both men have families.

Opposition Nominal

Both men have nominal primary opposition.

For Weaver it is Richard W. Johnson, University of Nebraska agriculture senior from Fairbury, who said when he filed he did so for the opportunity it would afford to express his views on the farm problem.

Callan's opponent is the aging Samuel Freeman of Hubbell, son of the first homesteader and a candidate for his party's nomination for Congress in the 1950, 1952 and 1954 primaries.

Weaver systematically visited every county in the district while home last fall during the Congressional recess. Hence, his workers explain, he probably will not be in the state again before the primary because of his conviction a Congressman should stay close to Capitol Hill during the session.

Against Colleagues

He has taken an active interest in veterans' affairs and the farm situation. He consistently advocated high parity for farm prices, while his colleagues favored a lower level. He voted for the recent farm bill, and to override the Presidential veto, while other Nebraska members voted the other way.

Callan made his initial campaign speech at a meeting of Lancaster County Democrats here April 30.

Those who heard him declared it was carefully thought out and said he shows real promise.

The "shoestring" First District is made up of the lower two tiers of counties from Colorado to the Missouri River.

There are 25 counties in the district, which normally turns in a total vote of about 65,000 in a primary election. The ratio of Republican votes to Democratic votes in recent primaries has been about two-to-one.

Biggest 408,000

The biggest primary in Nebraska history was in 1934, when over 408,000 persons trooped to the polls in the excitement over the launching of the Rooseveltian era.

Nebraska's Congressional districts then were not the same as now, but counties now in the First District turned in 63,000 Republican votes and 56,000 Democratic votes in round numbers that year.

Ten years later came the smallest primary in the state since women had the vote. The state total in 1944, a war year, when many Nebraskans were away from home, was 143,623. The First District produced only 33,210 votes, divided 22,519 Republican and 10,691 Democratic.

Two years ago the state total in the primary was 254,046, and the first district figure was 64,701—46,492 Republican and 18,209 Democratic.

Because of the apparent lack of interest this year, the vote May 15 could fall down to the level of 1944, and some astute observers believe it will.

Nebraska Mothers' Week

Established by historical fact and made official by a governor's proclamation the noble mission of motherhood has been called to the attention of all Nebraskans for special observance this week.

Nebraska Mothers' week will continue until the close of Mothers' Day Sunday.

Said Governor Victor Anderson:

"The center of our complex society is the home and within every home the guiding light is a mother."

Quite true, and a matter of a great deal more significance than words can make it. But it calls for more than a passing tribute.

The special week, as we understand it, is a signal for other services than praise. It calls for acts of special consideration—deeds of thoughtfulness and the reminder that there are fifty-two weeks in every year. Motherhood is not an occasional occupation but an around-the-clock responsibility.

We imagine that mothers will be well satisfied with a few sincere tokens of love and affection, of understanding and loyalty. And they are certainly in order. But in these hurried and complicated days it is also a service of unusual necessity to reflect upon the degree of security that is being granted to the home as we have always known it, to cherish and preserve it as the best of all surroundings in which a mother can be all that our fine praise calls for.

Good For What Ails Us

We are inclined to think that a couple of Australian athletes—one of them the famous John Landy — did Uncle Sam a kindly deed Saturday by outtracing the best milers Uncle Sam had to offer. There has been a lot of fuss newspaperwise over Wes Santee but unless his flying feet can pick themselves up and put themselves down a wee bit faster than they have been able to do up until now we doubt that Santee will ever see the day when he can outrun these long-striding Australians.

Maybe, it is just as well.

As a nation we have been pretty sweet on ourselves in connection with the Olympics. We have thought that Olympic honors belonged to us as a matter of heritage without a challenger in sight capable of giving us worthy competition. That is an idea that we may find painful. A number of nations have placed themselves in a position to challenge American supremacy. Australia particularly has been turning out distance runners capable of matching the best Uncle Sam can produce.

We are getting ready for the Olympics and this year's competition may give us a real test. These early victories should have the effect of eliminating our conceit.

Shivers Fading Star

When this was written it appeared that Texas Governor Allan Shivers had been soundly trounced in the Texas convention by Speaker Sam Rayburn and Democratic Senate Floor Leader Lyndon Johnson in the selection of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

There will not be any wailing, mourning, or shedding of tears by Democrats generally. Governor Shivers led the traditionally Democratic state of Texas into the Republican column in 1952. He started out at the party's convention in Chicago, bolted Adlai Stevenson, and put Texas in the Eisenhower column in November.

Shivers had the satisfaction of seeing the Eisenhower administration put its prestige and its power back of Tideland legislation. That may have been pleasing to the powerful oil interests of Texas but we doubt that it registered heavily with the average Texas voter. Now the oil and natural gas interests of Texas must make their choice. They can go over to the Republican party in Texas, bag and baggage, but they cannot work within the framework of the Democratic party. They well know that to change party affiliations in Texas offers little in the practical field of politics.

Speaker Sam Rayburn had to wait patiently to even the score with Governor Shivers but he has won, and won decisively. Anything can happen in politics but from this distance it appears that Shivers star is fading rapidly. He will not be the figure in politics in the big Lone Star state that he was up until these early May days. And he will not bask in the spotlight in Chicago.

Good Man

Little attention was given to it in the news columns but the public lost a good deal as the result of the recent resignation of Allan Sproul, president of the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Sproul has been in Federal Reserve Service 36 years, named to his post by bankers. But he has long been recognized as one primarily disposed to attending to the public interest. He had that fine gift of perception that told him when the public interest is served, and he did not deviate. He had much to do in the development of the Federal Reserve into its present character and was one of the stalwarts who with Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles preserved the stature and function of the system after World War II.

There is no public hint that he resigned either under pressure or in protest to anything. His explanation, and a believable one, is that after 36 years in harness he wishes to retire and go to California to live it up as a free, untrammelled man while there is yet time. No one will criticize that though many will regret that the time has come for such a good man to quit public service. And others will wonder if Mr. Sproul is out of sympathy with what is going on now.

Should Be Open

The uniform code of military justice provides that courts martial shall be open to the public unless the convening court orders it otherwise.

In the instance of Marine Sergeant Matthew McKeone whose orders for a night hike at Parris Island brought the death of several trainees it is hoped that the court will see fit not to close the trial that has been ordered on charges of manslaughter.

It is to the public interest that McKeone's trial be thoroughly conducted and it is also important to the relatives of the dead Marines to have the satisfaction of all of the evidence adduced at the trial. But equally important is the public's right to know all there is to know about training procedures and grants of authority. One thing it would like to know is why a sergeant, apparently on his own instance, can order up imprudent, and in this instance calamitous, activities when a training camp is replete with commissioned officers whose duty is to take responsibility and to make decisions.

Purged By McCarthy Tydings Seeks Seat

WASHINGTON — The first real casualty of McCarthyism comes up today before the people of Maryland. He is Millard Tydings, the Democratic senator who headed the committee to investigate McCarthy's original charges of 205 card-carrying Communists in the State Department and who, when he refused to knuckle under to McCarthy, found himself defeated for reelection.

McCarthy called upon his Chicago Tribune friends for campaign funds, collected $10,000 from Texas oil tycoon Clint Murchison and wife, circulated a fake photo of Tydings shaking hands with Earl Browder, and managed to knock Tydings out of the senate.

No less than FDR had tried to defeat him in 1938, but the vogue of McCarthyism was such that the senator from Wisconsin succeeded where the President of the United States had failed.

So the people around the nation today will be watching Maryland to see whether Tydings will be voted vindication.

Whether he is or not, the events of the last two years have certainly given vindication.

Roll Call of "Communists"

Owen Lattimore, the John Hopkins professor whom McCarthy smeared and Tydings defended, has now been cleared by the courts.

Val Lorwin, the State Department official whom McCarthy named as a Communist and who was indicted for perjury when he denied it, has now been cleared. The Justice Department appeared in court to state it had no case.

Edward Lamb, the Toledo radio-TV owner, smeared by the FCC as a Communist, has now shown that the witnesses accusing him were phonies. One has been convicted of perjury.

Jacob Burck, the Chicago Sun-Times cartoonist accused by the late Paul Crouch of being a Communist, has been exonerated. Crouch, the professional witness for the Justice Department who also tried to smear Aubrey Williams, former union administrator, and Clifford Durr, brother-in-law of Justice Hugo Black, was so discredited that the Justice Department dropped him.

Abraham Chasnov, who was dropped by the Navy Department as a security risk, was rehired by the Navy with an apology.

Mr. Annie Lee Moss, who was hauled up before McCarthy's committee and charged with being a Communist, has been rehired by the Army.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, the Negro diplomat who was investigated by the Justice Department for seven months, was cleared.

Not all these cases were attributable directly to McCarthy. But it was his tactics which created such a terrorist atmosphere that in some cases Attorney General Brownell almost outdid him.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Ike Is Believed A Peacemaker

WASHINGTON—The image of President Eisenhower that dominates in the world today is that of the peacemaker. This is true particularly in Europe and Asia. And with the conferences set for early summer with President Soekarno of Indonesia and Prime Minister Nehru of India, that image will be enhanced.

In an election year, everything that happens is given a political coloration, and the Republicans certainly will promote the President's role as a bringer of peace.

The fact of peace, along with the indication that in a second term Mr. Eisenhower may be able to reach a settlement with the Communists that the west need not be afraid to accept, is likely to be the loudest Republican claim to continue in power.

But politics to one side, the position the President established at the Summit conference at Geneva has left an indelible imprint on opinion everywhere, and that goes for the little group of men who make up the collective dictatorship in Moscow.

He succeeded in convincing even neutralists and wavers not only that the United States was not a warmonger but that this country meant to work long and hard to ease tensions preparatory to a peace settlement.

While it has a potent political appeal at home, this line makes some Republicans distinctly nervous. They are fearful of "appeasement," a word of denunciation they freely applied to the Democrats in their conduct of foreign policy.

No poll-taker has yet penetrated the fastness of the Kremlin to ask the 11 men who make up the Supreme Presidium their choice if they could vote for President of the United States. But it is a safe surmise that Mr. Eisenhower would sweep the Kremlin.

The Soviet rulers associate the Democrats with former President Truman, the Korean conflict and the threat of a preventive war. This is their identification of Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Governor Averell Harriman and others prominent in the Democratic picture.

B. and K. demonstrated once again during their British visit that the Soviets believe they can get along with the hardboiled Right but that they are bound to quarrel with the Democratic Left.

At a dinner given by British Laborites, Khrushchev clashed violently with Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskill who called on the Communists for release of Social Democrats imprisoned in Eastern Europe. Gaitskill shortly is coming to America to address the convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union at Atlantic City and is likely to have some things to say about Communist relations with the West.

As part of what seems to be an exercise in having your cake and eating it, too, the Republican Right is developing a new line on Soviet Russia.

A revolt, so the line goes, is simmering beneath the surface in the Soviet Union. Now if this is true, we can just sit comfortably back and wait for nature to take its course. The risk of "appeasement" in moving toward a settlement can be avoided, since you do not need to bother about so unstable a regime which will fall of its own weight.

So much that happens behind the Iron Curtain is shrouded in mystery that the theory of potential revolt could be correct. It happens, however, that those who have the most direct and immediate knowledge consider it to be dangerous nonsense.

It is dangerous because it encourages in America the mood of relaxation in total peace that is more and more evident. In a thousand different ways this mood, which is part of our boom-time economy, tends to undermine the strength this country must maintain if the West is to stand up to the challenge of Communism in peace or in war.

BOB CONSIDINE

Woman's World In News, Too?

COLUMBIA, Mo. — A noted columnist asserted tonight that "sob sister" journalism is a thing of the past and women reporters now are matching wits with men in obtaining major news stories.

Phyllis Battelle, widely known "Assignment America" columnist and reporter for International News Service, told diners at a banquet winding up the University of Missouri's 47th Annual Journalism Week:

"A lot has happened since Nelly Bly became the first woman reporter to go around the world. Women in the newspaper business have managed, despite the home and baby trailer, to outsmart men in coverage of big events."

"No longer," said Miss Battelle, "does a woman let her personal emotions show either in competing for news or writing about it. She knows only too well from experience that she is working in a field where chivalry is not only dead—it never lived."

The trim blonde newswoman cited an incident from her own career as an example. In reporting New York's famous "lonely hearts" murder trial several years ago, she found all the available telephones were plugged so tightly "not even a hairpin could open them up." She said:

"Newspapermen accuse women with working in devious feminine ways to rob them of stories. But those telephones were put out of order by men."

She met the challenge, she added, by calling on a friend to stand in a telephone booth and hold the line open for the rest of the trial—sometimes for as "long as 10 hours at a stretch."

Although women "need to work doubly hard" to prove themselves in the newspaper business, she said it is a career that has its rewarding aspects.

Miss Battelle told an audience of more than 500 at the banquet: "You can meet all the celebrities. Virtually all personalities in the news, whether they admit it or not, love to see their names in print."

Earl J. Johnson, vice president and general news manager of United Press and the only other speaker at the banquet, charged the United States Information Agency with "unfair competition" against American press associations in the foreign news market.

Johnson said the USIA supplies news free to the same countries where independent American wire services must pay to get their news.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Summertime And City Parks

At least two city employees are particularly thankful for recent rains.

Park Superintendent James Ager reports that the rain has started park areas seeded to blue grass to turn green. Much of the enjoyment of the parks this summer will depend on the blessings of Mother Nature.

If she makes them green with thick grass and heavy foliage, they are then enjoyed to their fullest. It is actually the touch of nature which makes an outing in the parks the pleasure that it is. The same food eaten in your dining room could never be as savory as when consumed at a heavy wooden park table under a big elm tree or snuggled in among a group of deep green fir trees.

And how much more the spirit is lifted and everyday cares forgotten when a walk through the park is cushioned with a heavy carpet of blue grass underfoot. And the bed it makes for dreaming with a skyward gaze is a master's touch unparalleled in any other way.

While not gifted with the vastness of Pioneer Park, Irvingdale Park is one which should show considerable improvement this summer. The Irvingdale lake area at 17th and Harrison has been seeded in grass, the banks of the lake are now all lined with stone, lilies have been planted in the lake and a small amount of playground equipment will soon be placed in the area.

Farther east in the park, planting is under way to provide a screen on the north side of the swimming pool under construction in the southeast section of the park. The plantings, to be continued on around to the south or Van Dorn side, will shut the pool and its activities off from surrounding residential areas.

While of little direct benefit to the park, the Irvingdale area will soon be improved further with construction of a new open ditch storm sewer from 20th and Van Dorn to 17th and Harrison. This $38,500 project will nearly complete a drainage improvement program for the area which extends from 20th and Van Dorn all the way west to Salt Creek.

With its improved drainage, the swimming pool and the lake, the Irvingdale valley will offer the city a great potential for a really outstanding community improvement project. Much has already been done in the area but to stop at this point would be a real loss.

Also with a special interest in wet weather is Street Superintendent Lynn Myers. It is this kind of climatic condition which puts dirt roads in the best shape for grading. Grading now can be done without its usual accompaniment of flying dust, a sure-fire source of complaint when it is present.

In another respect, the rain will bring a little grief to Myers. To Myers, that luscious green grass of ten turns out to be a headache. When it grows in the center parkways in the streets, it has to be maintained.

The end of maintenance that Myers has trouble with is keeping the grass. Routine mowing would not be too big a job for Myers or the Park Department but when summer heat hits, it's a job to keep the grass in shape. Most of the center parkways have no water available to them and there is no successful way of fighting the weeds if they once get started.

Along with that problem, the rain brings dirty streets which must be washed down and swept clean by Myers' department. While not in the category of major problems, the troubles which descend on Myers along with the rain show that there are few things in this world which have no bad points.

If no one else, at least the man with a leaky basement would agree with that.

With a lull at the City Hall, discussion among reporters centered on imaginative stories which might come from Mayor Clark Jeary. One of the more spectacular suggestions was for a story that Jeary advocates dynamiting the County Courthouse.

Slightly far-fetched, but the fact does remain that city and county relations were improved none with the recent exchange of letters between Jeary and County Commissioner Del Lienemann. Regardless of which one is right in their stand on consolidation of city and county assessing and taxation activities, the exchanges did little to help matters. If anything, they resulted in a little more confusion among the public in regard to the important issue of a new joint building which will be on the June 26 special election ballot in the form of a bond issue proposal.

A greater result yet was the decision by Jeary to have the entire city charter rewritten. He proposed this to accomplish not only consolidation, but creation of a board to manage the city's utilities and many other matters in which he says the charter is at fault.

And whether it is right, wrong or makes no difference, the rewriting of the charter will not be the fastest way to accomplish consolidation. The rewriting is needed and is a most laudable undertaking, but it will take longer that way to provide the means for consolidation than would single charter amendments on consolidation matters alone.

Ike's Gamble

Riverton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: "I have wondered," declared Harry Truman in Des Moines, April 11, "why this administration would want to reduce farm prices, and I frankly don't know."

The New York Weekly People, May 5, 1956, offers not-too-wise Harry some information in this: "There is no mystery about the administration's farm policy. High farm-price supports cost money, because they mean that the government must advance crop loans at the support level and eventually, take over the crops."

Despite dumping of agricultural surpluses abroad Uncle Sam has more than $9 billion tied up in farm products right now, much of which he won't get back. Such a program, siphoning hundreds of millions annually into the pockets of (mostly) farm capitalists, is plainly contrary to the interests of the industrial capitalists. And to old-time farmers, too.

Ike's promises to the farmers before election were meant to fool them into voting for him. He may lose the farm vote next time, but he's smart enough to note that the farm vote as a result of the capitalist squeeze on all little men, has declined from 30.5 million to 22 million now, so Ike and Ezra figure they can win without the farm vote. Big business now controls the majority vote; one way of gerrymandering "democracy" in the top "free" nation.

JOHN D. MCINERNEY

An Honest Wage

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Every adult — and some not so adult — has his own opinion as to the value of manual labor. Apparently the old saying that a man's back is worth one dollar a day, no limit to the value of his brain, is lost in the limbo of history. Most of us agree that the dollar a day scale is well lost, though many a fine family was reared on even less.

Men worked hard for that dollar. Their wives also worked hard to make as good a home as possible with what they had and rear their families into good citizens. For the most part they did a good job.

That dollar is now the minimum wage scale for unskilled labor, not the day scale but the hour scale. The wage goes up and up from there. Dissatisfaction is rife with constant search for a way to boost the wage and lower the service rendered.

What became of the principle of giving a day's labor for an honest wage? No one wants to return to the old hard life of years gone by, but it would be wonderful to find now and then, the old spirit of honesty.

A case in point, and the city of Lincoln is seeded with them, might well be found by a very little time spent in watching some of the repair work being done on our city streets. Recently, on a street that has been blocked off for more than two weeks (two blocks under repair) where middle of the street parkings are being removed, eight men took a full hour to unload a dump truck of dirt. Why?

They even climbed onto the truck and used their hands in the process. One man was more than half an hour cleaning his glasses. Why the labor saving machinery and all the other expensive equipment? It is hardly likely that any of these men were in the one-dollar-an-hour minimum scale class.

If the city treasury is so overflowing that it can afford this sort of thing, which doubtless is one of the least leaks, why not lower the tax rate instead of boosting it? A great many of the tax-payers are wondering.

16,000 Go To Decatur For Bridge Dedication

... As Centennial Celebration Ends

DECATUR, Neb.—The estimated 16,000 who watched the dedication of Decatur's famous bridge over the Missouri River Sunday afternoon included women in sunbonnets and flowing dresses and be-whiskered men with top hats who have been celebrating the town's 100th anniversary.

Gov. Victor Anderson cut the ribbon that officially opened the two million dollar span which for four years had no river under it.

It was built on dry land and plans to move the river channel under it were held up until last fall.

Gov. Leo Hoegh of Iowa was represented by John C. Ropes at the dedication.

Others present were Mayor W. W. Small of Decatur; the mayor of Onawa, Ia.; Rep. Robert Harrison of Nebraska; Nebraska State Engineer L. N. Ress; Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter, the Army's Missouri River Division engineer, and Col. T. J. Hayes III, Omaha District engineer.

Horse-Draws

They were in a group of more than 100 who were entertained at dinner in Decatur. They rode to the bridge in horse-drawn carriages.

About 12,000 persons watched a two-mile parade on Friday as this town of 800 persons celebrated its centennial.

A Tekamah Chamber of Commerce float which featured a replica of the bridge won first place in the parade.

Besides a number of floats, the parade contained 10 high school bands, the Fremont Oriental Shrine band, several units from the Tangier Shrine Temple of Omaha and the Bancroft and Thurston County saddle clubs.

Oldest Native

Mrs. J. T. Choyce, 87, the oldest living resident who was born in Decatur, was among persons honored in an Oldtimers' parade the previous day.

Alfred Ferguson won the whistler contest with his Abraham Lincoln beard.

The four-day centennial celebration was complete with baseball games, dances, horse shows and band concerts.

Jaycees Elect Haberman

NORFOLK, Neb. (U. P.)—The Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce, winding up its state convention here, Sunday elected Rex S. Haberman of Hastings as president.

He defeated Charles Dickey of Columbus, 117 to 50, on the first ballot.

Vice presidents include Robert Scoville of Hartington, Donald F. Johnston of Bayard, LeRoy Welsh of Fairbury, Ted Vrana of Fremont, Bevin Bump of Chadron, Dr. John Allen of Aurora, Leroy Buzard Jr. of Omaha and Dr. Stan Schroeder of Imperial.

Kenneth J. Lahrs of Fremont was named an international director.

Picked for national director were William B. Latenser of Omaha, Edward D. Burke of Imperial and William S. Bitner of Scottsbluff.

The Jaycees picked Hilby Beck of Hastings College as the Nebraska Amateur Athlete of the Year.

Speaker Saturday night was National President Hugh McKenna of Omaha.

Two-Car Crash Injures Four

LINCOLN Star Special
WAHOO, Neb.—Four persons were injured, none seriously, when two cars collided five miles east of Wahoo at the junction of Highways 77, 92 and 30A about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Injured were John Thomsen, 35, of Grand Island, multiple bruises and three fractured ribs; Ollie Walker, 60, of Sioux City, Ia., bruises; Mrs. Mabel Walker, 64, cut scalp and bruises, and Mrs. Thomsen, 30, laceration over right eye.

Mrs. Thomsen broke the front windshield and was thrown from the car. The two Thomsen boys, ages three and six, were not injured.

Walker was turning north on 92 and 30A to enter highway 77 for Fremont when his car was struck by the Thomsen vehicle which was going west on 92 and 30A.

The injured were taken to Saunders County Hospital by the Wahoo Fire Department first aid squad.

FAIRBURY GETS RABIES WARNING

FAIRBURY, Neb. (U. P.)—Fairbury residents have been warned to be on the lookout for rabid animals. Police Chief Joseph Cook said a dog which died here had the disease. As far as is known, he said, the pet had bitten no one.

Axtell School Dedication, Open House Draw 650

About 650 persons attended a dedication and open house at this $445,000 school building at Axtell, Neb., Sunday, Supt. Leo Kelly said. Dr. Floyd A. Miller, assistant state commissioner of education, principal speaker at the ceremony, commended the people of Axtell for their progressiveness and challenged them to conduct a school program as fine as the new structure they have built. The one-story building has an elementary wing built around an open court which will provide a play and project area. Lee Wells is president of the board of education. Among the honored guests at the dedication program was Mrs. Kathleen Foote of Axtell, a member of the State Legislature. (Photo Special to The Star).

Exchange Students End Encampment

Some 200 foreign and American youngsters, who have or are scheduled to take part in the American Field Service exchange program, held final discussion sessions Sunday to end a three-day meeting at the National Guard Camp near Ashland.

The closing discussions followed church services. A picnic lunch was held at noon, after which the students dispersed to their various homes.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, the meeting brought together foreign students, living in American homes while attending school here, American students who have returned from abroad and other American students scheduled for scholarships abroad this summer.

Family sponsors, parents and youngsters from an 11-state area attended the meeting. John Baylor of Lincoln is regional representative of the AFS and Mrs. W. L. Williams is chairman of the Lincoln committee.

Otoe County Teachers Elect Max Hensley

SYRACUSE, Neb.—Max Hensley, Unadilla superintendent, succeeds Lee Hull of Talmage as president of the Otoe County Teachers Association.

David McPherson of Syracuse was named vice president and Mildred Brehm of Talmage was re-elected secretary-treasurer at the annual meeting here.

Fremont Woman To End 32 Years As County Clerk

FREMONT, Neb.—Mrs. Frances L. Anderson will retire June 1 after 32 years as clerk of the county court here.

She has the longest record of continuous service of any courthouse employee.

Mrs. Kitty Roush started working for the county six years before Mrs. Anderson did, but her 30 years of service has not been continuous.

LINCOLN Star Special WAHOO, Neb.—Four persons were injured, none seriously, when two cars collided five miles east of Wahoo at the junction of Highways 77, 92 and 30A about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Injured were John Thomsen, 35, of Grand Island, multiple bruises and three fractured ribs; Ollie Walker, 60, of Sioux City, Ia., bruises; Mrs. Mabel Walker, 64, cut scalp and bruises, and Mrs. Thomsen, 30, laceration over right eye.

Mrs. Thomsen broke the front windshield and was thrown from the car. The two Thomsen boys, ages three and six, were not injured.

Walker was turning north on 92 and 30A to enter highway 77 for Fremont when his car was struck by the Thomsen vehicle which was going west on 92 and 30A.

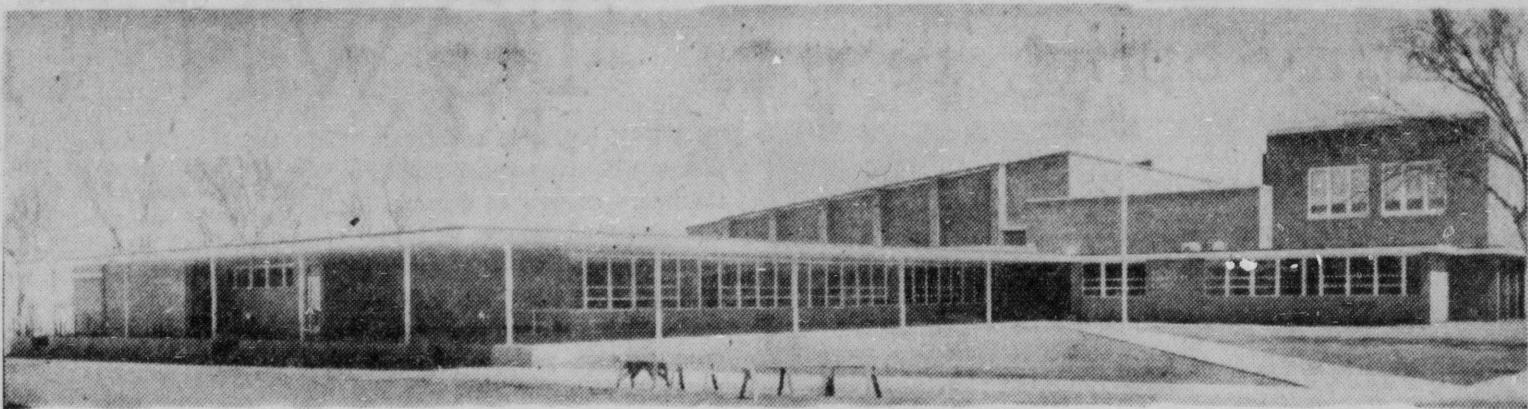

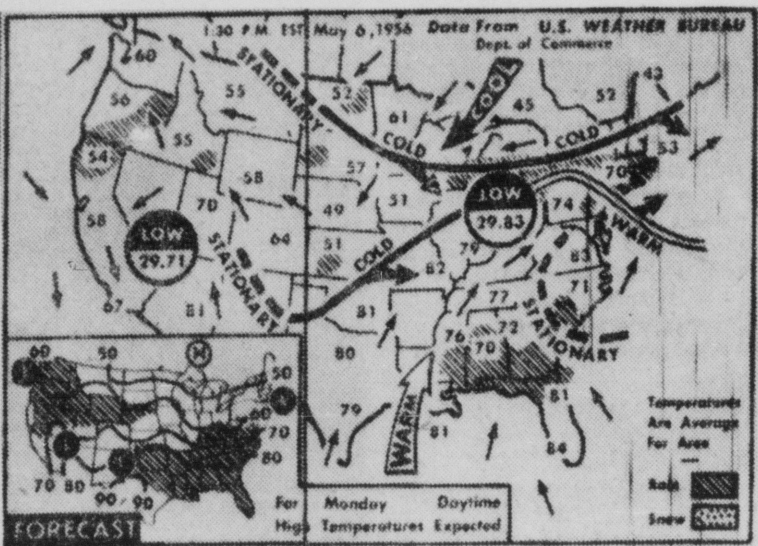

The injured were taken to Saunders County Hospital by the Wahoo Fire Department first aid squad.

FAIRBURY GETS RABIES WARNING

FAIRBURY, Neb. (U)—Fairbury residents have been warned to be on the lookout for rabid animals. Police Chief Joseph Cook said a dog which died here had the disease. As far as is known, he said, the pet had bitten no one.

Student Speaks

OSCEOLA, Neb.—Bergitta Anderson, a Swedish exchange student who is attending high school in York, was speaker at a supper which Osceola Luther League members held for their parents.

Axtell School Dedication, Open House Draw 650

About 650 persons attended a dedication and open house at this $445,000 school building at Axtell, Neb., Sunday, Supt. Leo Kelly said. Dr. Floyd A. Miller, assistant state commissioner of education, principal speaker at the ceremony, commended the people of Axtell for their progressiveness and challenged them to conduct a school program as fine

as the new structure they have built. The one-story building has an elementary wing built around an open court which will provide a play and project area. Lee Wells is president of the board of education. Among the honored guests at the dedication program was Mrs. Kathleen Foote of Axtell, a member of the State Legislature. (Photo Special to The Star).

Exchange Students End Encampment

Some 200 foreign and American youngsters, who have or are scheduled to take part in the American Field Service exchange program, held final discussion sessions Sunday to end a three-day meeting at the National Guard Camp near Ashland.

The closing discussions followed church services. A picnic lunch was held at noon, after which the students dispersed to their various homes.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, the meeting brought together foreign students, living in American homes while attending school here, American students who have returned from abroad and other American students scheduled for scholarships abroad this summer.

Family sponsors, parents and youngsters from an 11-state area attended the meeting. John Baylor of Lincoln is regional representative of the AFS and Mrs. W. L. Williams is chairman of the Lincoln committee.

Otoe County Teachers Elect Max Hensley

SYRACUSE, Neb.—Max Hensley, Unadilla superintendent, succeeds Lee Hull of Talmage as president of the Otoe County Teachers Association.

David McPherson of Syracuse was named vice president and Mildred Brehm of Talmage was re-elected secretary-treasurer at the annual meeting here.

Fremont Woman To End 32 Years As County Clerk

FREMONT, Neb.—Mrs. Frances L. Anderson will retire June 1 after 32 years as clerk of the county court here.

She has the longest record of continuous service of any courthouse employee.

Mrs. Kitty Roush started working for the county six years before Mrs. Anderson did, but her 30 years of service has not been continuous.

COTNER TERRACE

Our feature would probably be very appropriately named should we decide to call it "Here and There, When and Where" for our news out in Cotner Terrace this week seems to consist of just a little bit of everything and much of it stems from families who will be making their debut in our column today.

Our first presentation is Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Monroe and their two children, Jeffrey, 3, and Mark, 1, who just recently arrived in Lincoln and who now are living at 4643 Gladstone. The Monroes previously lived in Cheyenne, Wyo., where Mr. Monroe was on the State National Resource Board. Mr. Monroe came to Lincoln to organize the Nebraska Gas and Oil Association where he will serve as the first executive director. We were wondering how well the Monroes liked Lincoln after hearing that their son blossomed out with measles just as they were in the process of moving into their new home. But Mrs. Monroe informed us she thinks they all are going to be very happy here. Someone should have warned them ahead of time that they were moving into the paradise of the measles bug.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vaughn and their two children, Jimmy and Debbie, spent Sunday in Omaha. Mr. Vaughn had to go on business, so Mrs. Vaughn and the children decided to go along and pay Mrs. Everett Jenkins a visit while they were there.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Griffin of Union spent the week-end in Lincoln visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McFarland. The Griffins didn't find their young grandson at home, however, as Dennis had gone to Union for the week-end to stay with his aunt and Uncle. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Leiner. It would be our guess that Dennis is probably one of the most envied boys in his entire school, for the main purpose of his trip was to visit his horse, Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan had a dinner party at their home Friday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newsham of Grand Island who are in Lincoln visiting Mrs. Newsham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Stage, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller were also present for the occasion.

From the looks of things Mr. and Mrs. Newsham were kept quite busy over the week-end on Saturday night they were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Urborn for a bridge game. Other members of the group included Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Don Dutcher of Springfield. The bridge game was referred to as a practice session and now we're wondering whether the women felt the men needed the practice or the men needed the refresher course. We have our own guess.

Mrs. Stella Hawkins of Holmesville was honored with a surprise birthday party Saturday night at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins. All of Mrs. Hawkins' children and grandchildren were present for the celebration, and the adult group included sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Hawkins, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Doris Hawkins and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jacoby.

The Brides' Book Says:

An early June bride-elect is Carole Ann Marx who has chosen Sunday, June 10, as the day for her marriage to William Livingston Berry of Tulsa, Okla.

Miss Marx has named her cousin, Mrs. Paul E. Galter, as her matron of honor, and her maid of honor will be Miss Naomi Kaufman. The bridesmaids will be Miss Donna Steinberg of Omaha, Mrs. Michael Green of Columbus, Ga., Miss Margie Wilson and Miss Sarah Lehman, and attending her cousin as flower girl will be Miss Sari Gaye Marx.

Serving his brother as best man will be Max Berry of Tulsa, and the corps of ushers will include the bride-elect's brother, Stephen Marx, Richard Kaufman, and Mr. Berry's cousins, Jack Livingston of Tulsa, William B. Berry of Tyler, Tex., and Lt. Michael Green, Columbus, Ga. Paul Galter, Lincoln, and Allan Golden, Tulsa, will light the candles preceding the ceremony.

chapter and parents of the active girls. Greeting the guests were Mrs. C. R. Allen housemother, Miss Pauline Slouecker faculty advisor, Miss Barbara Ziegler, president and Miss Carol McCoy, social chairman. A luncheon and patronesses who presided at the tea table were Mrs. W. E. Poe, Mrs. George Lemoy, Mrs. Charles Wayne, Mrs. George Matz, Mrs. J. Reid Green and Miss Janifer Pritchard.

Pictured are (standing left to right) Larry Sandall, Theta Chi president, Miss Connie Coleman, a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, Miss Cherie Olson, a member of Willard, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olson of Bartlett and Mrs. Allen the housemother. ## To Entertain Colonial Dames

Mrs. Gerald Rosenberger, 2828 Stratford, will be hostess next Wednesday afternoon to the Nebraska Society of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century. The group will meet at 12:30 o'clock and the program will be presented by Mrs. H. W. Des Jardins.

Assisting Mrs. Rosenberger as hostesses will be Mrs. C. E. R. Emond, Mrs. H. C. F. Eley, Mrs. Earl S. Fullbrook and Miss Madeline Brown.

THE future events that we mentioned have to do with luncheons—The first is on Tuesday when Mrs. Edward Gugenheim and Mrs. Victor Friend will be hostesses at Hotel Cornhusker. Sharing honors at the party will be Mrs. Gilbert Rittmaster of New York City, who is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter,

THE WEEK begins in a chipper fashion with news that involves the future as well as departed weekend—And before we become too involved with home-comers, courtesies for guests and brides elect and such, we want to give you the tidings from Cheyenne. Who we learned that Miss Connie Ann Buntin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrew Buntin, Jr., arrived on Saturday, May 5. The small Miss Buntin's mother is the former Mimi DuTeau of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth DuTeau and Kappa Kappa Gamma at Nebraska. Dr. and Mrs. William Andrew Buntin of Cheyenne are the paternal grand parents.

Mrs. DuTeau, so we heard, left several days ago for Cheyenne and was joined there on Saturday by Mr. DuTeau.

IT WAS fun to hear about the luncheon at the Statler Hotel in Washington D. C. last Thursday, when the members of the Congressional Club, composed of the wives of members of Congress (abinet members and the United States Supreme Court justices held one of its regular meetings. We were especially interested since Mrs. Albert Held who, with Mr. Held, returned to Lincoln Friday evening was the guest of Mrs. Philip Weaver. Also a guest at the luncheon, making it a truly gala occasion for Mrs. Held, was Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower.

YESTERDAY opened the season for the mixed foursome group at the Lincoln Country Club when approximately 40 were on hand for an afternoon of golf and the buffet dinner which followed.

The committee in charge of the festivities included Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace de Brown, chairmen Mr. and Mrs. C. Ned Cadwallader, Mr. and Mrs. Al Glandt, Mr. and Mrs. Selden Davey, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Abel, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hyland.

ALSO on the week-end calendar was the Mr. and Mrs. Dancing Club dinner dance held on Friday evening at Cotner Terrace. We were told that there were five guest couples invited to the party and that they were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moyer, Mr. and Mrs. Mario Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Shrepel, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller.

Miss Shirley Williamson of Lincoln, as the maid of honor, and Miss Jean Danton of Milford, the bridesmaid, wore alike frocks of white organza dyed patterned with tiny blue bowknots. The fitted bodices and full skirts were sashed with blue satin, caught at the back into draped bows, and their brow veils were held by bandeaux of the satin. They carried bouquets of white carnations. Miss Debra Runty of Burwell was the flower girl, and ringbearer was Judson

Mr. and Mrs. William Gold, II, and Mrs. L. F. Baum of Philadelphia who arrived on Friday evening to be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gold.

ANOTHER notation on the week's social calendar is the luncheon for which Mrs. Grey Jewett and Mrs. Steven Watkins will be hostesses on Wednesday when they entertain at the Lincoln Country Club.

BACK to the week-end again to tell you that Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Elliott and their son, Stuart, are back in town after a three weeks stay on the west coast. Dr. and Mrs. Elliott went first to Los Angeles where Dr. Elliott attended a meeting of the American College of Physicians, of which he is a Fellow, and where the travelers lingered for several days following the meeting. Before returning home Dr. and Mrs. Elliott and their son spent some time in San Francisco. We surmise, however, that if you ask Stuart what his favorite spot in all of California might be, he would answer—"Disneyland." We might also add that the adult members of the Elliott family weren't the least bored with this famous fairland for children.

AND Saturday was the day that Mrs. Howard Lunch and Mrs. Leon Lichtenberg entertained at luncheon at Hillcrest Club in courtesy to Miss Sandra Burnett whose marriage to Robert Miller will take place on May 20. Following the luncheon the bride-elect was presented with a china and crystal shower.

And on Wednesday evening Miss Burnett was the honoree at a dessert supper and miscellaneous shower for which Miss L. K. Bourke was hostess at her home.

Another recent hostess who complimented the bride-to-be was Mrs. William J. Hill, Jr., the former Barbara Clark, who entertained at a dessert supper and shower on Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Verne Clark.

Had Sunday Wedding

MRS. ELDON E. KUHN

At a candlelight ceremony solemnized Sunday evening, May 6, Miss JoAnn Sinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sinn of Milford, became the bride of Eldon E. Kuhns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert E. Kuhns of Mantua, O. The 8 o'clock service was read by the Rev. S. G. Rasmussen at the Milford Methodist Church.

Miss Shirley Williamson of Lincoln, as the maid of honor, and Miss Jean Danton of Milford, the bridesmaid, wore alike frocks of white organza dyed patterned with tiny blue bowknots. The fitted bodices and full skirts were sashed with blue satin, caught at the back into draped bows, and their brow veils were held by bandeaux of the satin. They carried bouquets of white carnations. Miss Debra Runty of Burwell was the flower girl, and ringbearer was Judson

Hurd of Lincoln. Lighting the candles were Mrs. Melvin Earnest of Milford and Mrs. Donald Campbell of Aurora.

Robert Huettner of Omaha served Mr. Kuhns as best man, and seating the guests were Harley Stutzman and Donald Forst of Milford, and Jo Glover of Omaha.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin and tulle embroidered in a floral motif. Appliqued organza and pearl daises trimmed the high, rounded collar, and long tapered sleeves completed the snug bodice. The skirt was shirred into fullness, and the daisy motif was repeated on the tulle cap which held her veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of gardenias and stephanotis.

A reception was held in the parlors of the church after which the couple left for an eastern trip, later to reside in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gold, II, and Mrs. L. F. Baum of Philadelphia who arrived on Friday evening to be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gold.

ANOTHER notation on the week's social calendar is the luncheon for which Mrs. Grey Jewett and Mrs. Steven Watkins will be hostesses on Wednesday when they entertain at the Lincoln Country Club.

BACK to the week-end again to tell you that Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Elliott and their son, Stuart, are back in town after a three weeks stay on the west coast. Dr. and Mrs. Elliott went first to Los Angeles where Dr. Elliott attended a meeting of the American College of Physicians, of which he is a Fellow, and where the travelers lingered for several days following the meeting—Before returning home Dr. and Mrs. Elliott and their son spent some time in San Francisco. We surmise, however, that if you ask Stuart what his favorite spot in all of California might be, he would answer—"Disneyland." We might also add that the adult members of the Elliott family weren't the least bored with this famous fairland for children.

AND Saturday was the day that Mrs. Howard Linch and Mrs. Leon Lichtenberg entertained at luncheon at Hillcrest Club in courtesy to Miss Sandra Burnett whose marriage to Robert Miller will take place on May 20. Following the luncheon the bride-elect was presented with a china and crystal shower. And on Wednesday evening Miss Burnett was the honoree at a dessert supper and miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. L. K. Bourke was hostess at her home.

Another recent hostess who complimented the bride-to-be was Mrs. William J. Hill, Jr., the former Barbara Clark, who entertained at a dessert supper and shower on Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Verne Clark.

Had Sunday Wedding

MRS. ELDON E. KUHN

At a candlelight ceremony solemnized Sunday evening, May 6, Miss JoAnn Sinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sinn of Milford, became the bride of Eldon E. Kuhns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert E. Kuhns of Mantua, O. The 8 o'clock service was read by the Rev. S. G. Rasmussen at the Milford Methodist Church.

Miss Shirley Williamson of Lincoln, as the maid of honor, and Miss Jean Dainton of Milford, the bridesmaid, wore alike frocks of white organza patterned with tiny blue bowknots. The fitted bodices and full skirts were sashed with blue satin, caught at the back into draped bows, and their brow veils were held by bandeaux of the satin. They carried bouquets of white carnations. Miss Debra Runty of Burwell was the flower girl, and ringbearer was Judson

Hurd of Lincoln. Lighting the candles were Mrs. Melvin Earnest of Milford and Mrs. Donald Campbell of Aurora.

Robert Huettnier of Omaha served Mr. Kuhns as best man, and seating the guests were Harley Stutzman and Donald Forst of Milford, and Jo Glover of Omaha.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin and tulle embroidered in a floral motif. Appliqued organza and pearl daisies trimmed the high, rounded collar, and long tapered sleeves completed the snug bodice. The skirt was shirred into fullness, and the daisy motif was repeated on the tulle cap which held her veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of gardenias and stephanotis.

A reception was held in the parlors of the church after which the couple left for an eastern trip, later to reside in Ohio.

RUSSIAN SAILORS DESCRIBE JOY, PROBLEMS OF LIFE IN U.S.

Editor's Note—From Whitney, Russian-speaking Associated Press writer and former member of the A.P. Moscow staff, follows in the column to the left the results of an interview with three Russian sailors who, in the words of one of them, "chose freedom."

By TOM WHITNEY
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—"Tell Americans we want to say thank you for receiving us with hospitality!" That is boyish Russian seaman Victor Tarnikov speaking.

"Soviet power is a great unhappiness for Soviet people. It is rape, oppression and slave labor." That is Michael Ivankov-Nikolov, another Soviet seaman, speaking.

Tarnikov's only complaints about life in the United States were that the American press has consistently misinterpreted his last name and that barmen in some places refuse to serve him beer because he still lacks three months of being 21.

The Approving Chorus
Tarnikov's two well-dressed and healthy Russian seamen companions joined in a chorus of approval of his "thank you."

These three of the four Soviet sailors who were released from the Red Sea ship, the Georgi Zhukov, which was announced on April 27 to Soviet Ambassador George Zarubin's face their intention to remain permanently in this country—came to Baltimore specially for this interview. Their residences are a carefully kept U. S. government secret. All three say they want it that way.

It was the first such interview these three have granted since on April 7 five of their companions left the United States in circumstances which witnesses before the Senate Internal Security Committee—and the seamen who remain here—described as "kidnaping."

Wants Them Back
The Soviet government has served notice it will do everything in its power to get the remaining four back to the Soviet Union. It charged in a note on May 2 that the U. S. government is holding them unlawfully and demanded that "obstacles" preventing their return to Russia be removed.

The three seamen told me the only "obstacle" is their own will to stay here and the protection they have requested. They consider their five companions were coerced. The fourth member of their quartet, Victor Solovoy, who couldn't come here has expressed himself previously in a similar vein.

"Tell Americans for me," said the oldest of the three, Ivankov-Nikolov, the former radio chief of the Soviet tanker, "that we'll apply all our efforts to be useful citizens in our new homeland. We want to be 100 per cent Yankees."

Serious-Minded
Ivankov-Nikolov is a serious-minded and bespectacled man of 35. He said that long before the opportunity came in Formosa—where the Georgi Zhukov and its crew were interned in 1954 by Chinese Nationalist authorities when caught while trying to run in a cargo of kerosene jet fuel to Red China—he had thought about escaping from the Soviet Union.

"As I looked about me in the Soviet Union," he said, "I came to the conviction that life of Soviet people under the Soviet regime was abnormal and against nature. The Soviet power is a great unhappiness for Soviet people. It is rape, oppression and slave labor."

In his own words, Ivankov-Nikolov "chose freedom."
Not A Philosopher
Ben Veremenko, dark-haired 24-year-old with a twinkle in his eye who came originally from a farm village north of Odessa, did not claim deep ideological motivations for his decision not to return to the Soviet Union. He chose, he said, on the spur of the moment.

"I'm not a philosopher," he added. Ben told me he has decided what he wants in the free world.

"I want to get a farm." The real story about these Russians on whom so much attention has been focused in recent weeks is that of their efforts—and problems—in fitting themselves into the American scheme of things.

"Our main problem is English," said Tarnikov.

Solving Problem
"We are going to learn it," they all chorused. Ivankov-Nikolov already speaks it fluently. The other two of the trio are studying.

Another problem is the situation in which they feel they must be protected by the U. S. government from Soviet representatives in this country. They are surrounded by a security curtain which hardly seems to make for a normal life. I asked them repeatedly if they want this. All three of them expressed a strong wish to be protected against any attempt of Soviet representatives to get in touch with them.

Ivankov-Nikolov said he is certain the five sailors who were returned to the Soviet Union left against their will. He suggested that when Soviet representatives here contacted them they were given doctored vodka, then taken to Soviet diplomatic premises while they were incapable of resisting. Then, he said, they may have been shown photographs of their relatives being tortured and hypnotized through the immigration hearing at Idlewild Airport just before their departure.

Denied Charges
The three Soviet sailors denied charges made in Moscow by the five who returned that any of the Soviet sailors who came here were mistreated in the United States in Formosa while under internment. On the contrary, they said they had received much help and kindness.

They denied other charges of the five returnees in Moscow that they are being held here against their will. They predicted the five returnees will, when things quiet down after the Soviet government has extracted all possible propaganda value from them, be sent to cut wood in concentration camps.

The three said they preferred not to answer any questions about their present occupations on the ground this might give the Russians a clue to their whereabouts. They indicated they are all working or about to work. Previously two of the three were employed in Paterson, N. J.

So far most of the friendships these Soviet sailors have made since their arrival in this country last year appear to be with Russian-speaking residents of the United States. One of the three said he had never been invited into an English-speaking American home. But, he pointed out, while he was working in a factory he and his companions had a number of English-speaking friends among the other workers.

"Have you been homesick during your stay here?" I asked Ivankov-Nikolov.

"No," he replied.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months. In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drugstores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Omahan Elected DAV Commander

Jack Head of Omaha was elected commander of the state Disabled American Veterans organization Sunday.

Wayne Hueftle of Grand Island was named senior vice commander and Arthur Lockwood of Lincoln, junior vice commander at the group's annual convention. Harry Moser was elected chaplain and Orville Williams, sergeant at arms. Walter Schultz of Hastings is retiring commander.

The DAV members wound up their three-day convention Sunday with business sessions.

Mrs. Myrel Abbey of Hastings was elected president of the DAV auxiliary. Mrs. Anna Thompson of North Platte was named senior vice commander. Mrs. Leona Nielsen of Omaha, junior vice commander. Mrs. Frances Harmon of Omaha, treasurer. Mrs. Marie Chadd of Lincoln, sergeant at arms and Mrs. Nellie Oesterling of Fremont, chaplain.

Loran Cottrell of Lincoln was convention chairman.

New Chairman Of Ag Economics At NU Since 1950

Dr. Howard W. Ottoson, named over the weekend as chairman of the University of Nebraska's department of agriculture economics, has been at the University since 1950 and holds the rank of associate professor.

Dr. Ottoson replaces Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell, who was demoted from the chairmanship but who retains his rank as full professor. The action was taken by the university Regents shortly after they were presented with a petition signed by 505 students which said they felt the demotion "has reflected upon the standards of academic freedom" and asked the Regents to explain the action or to disapprove it.

The new chairman of the department holds bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Minnesota and a doctorate from Iowa State College. He is one of the co-directors of the Great Plains Land Use Study, financed by a $13,000 grant from Resources for the Future.

Mrs. Dean Rites At Lincoln, Crete

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgia DeCou Dean, 88, of Lincoln, will be 3:45 p.m. Tuesday at Wadlows.

The Rev. Thomas Dick will officiate. Graveside services will be held following the funeral at Riverside Cemetery at Crete, the Rev. Fred Leavitt officiating.

Mrs. Dean, who died Saturday, was the widow of the late Dr. Edwin B. Dean, retired president of Doane College.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Berta Dean of Lincoln and Mrs. Glenn R. Oertli of Lewistown, Mont.

Hardin To Leave July 1 For Turkey

Chancellor Clifford Hardin of the University of Nebraska plans to leave about July 1 for Turkey on a trip which he told the Board of Regents would last three to four weeks.

The University is assisting with the formation of Attaturk University in a program sponsored by the Turkish government and the U.S. International Co-operation Administration.

Rebels Fire Oil Tank
JAKARTA, Indonesia (U)—Darul Islam rebels set fire to a huge storage tank in North Sumatra holding nearly two million dollars worth of crude oil. Firemen said they lacked suitable equipment to put out the blaze and said it would just have to burn itself out. They estimated it would take a month.

U.S. Proposes 'General Staff' On Cold War

PARIS (U)—The United States Sunday proposed a "cold war general staff" to chart the battle with Moscow for the minds and hearts of mankind.

This emerged in early morning discussions of the NATO foreign ministers.

Secretary of State Dulles told the ministers he and President Eisenhower will put the United States into such a "general staff" if the other Atlantic Powers do.

Dulles' view is the Kremlin has unified command in the world war. The Western world has no adequate machinery for thrusting out common policy and fostering a sense of unity and solidarity.

The plan was one of the first handed to the "three wise men," a committee of foreign ministers set up Sunday to explore the political and economic extension NATO. The three are Lester B. Pearson of Canada, Gaetano Martino of Italy and Halvard Lange of Norway.

The U.S.-proposed general staff would be a top-level "Atlantic Cabinet," a panel of leaders of rank second only to the foreign ministers.

New Atom Fuel May Be Cheaper

By BILL RAWLINS

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Atomic scientists have begun tests on a liquid fuel reactor, or atomic furnace, which they believe holds promise of atomic power as cheap as coal by 1969.

The reactor, in which liquid atomic fuels are mixed together much like milk and cream in homogenized milk, is an improved version of a one which generated enough electricity at Oak Ridge to light 50 houses. Because of the way the liquid fuels are mixed, it is called a homogeneous reactor.

It is one of five reactor types which the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) is developing at various installations as a prelude to economical, peacetime atomic power.

"Economical" is the key word Dr. Alvin M. Weinberg, director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory, points out that atomic power now is far too expensive to compete with power generated at coal-fired steam plants.

As it stands now it would cost as much as 5 cents per kilowatt hour to generate electricity on a large scale with atomic energy. This compares with Tennessee Valley Authority's cost of about 3-10ths of a cent per kw for electricity generated at its steam plants.

"There is little question that ultimately nuclear energy will be as cheap as coal energy," Weinberg said. "And there is little question that our coal reserves ultimately will disappear."

Asked when he thought atomic power could compete on a cost basis with coal power, Weinberg said, "I think there's a good chance that we'll have competitive nuclear power by 1969."

6.1¢ makes any regular gasoline expensive to use;
6.1¢ makes any "cut-rate" gasoline expensive to use:

If you thought another gasoline was worth even one, two, or three cents a gallon more than the gasoline you've been buying at the same price, wouldn't you consider switching? Of course you would. And that's exactly why we are asking you to make your next tankful Skelly Supreme, the gasoline that actually gives you over six cents extra value per gallon—at no extra cost per gallon!

How can Skelly Supreme Gasoline give you over 6¢ worth of extra value you can't get in any other gasoline? The answer is Keotane, a product of more than 10 years of research and testing by Skelly engineers.

In Skelly Supreme Gasoline, Keotane boosts your car's power and mileage by dissolving sticky gum in vital carburetor and combustion areas.

Gum Is Like A Glue

Gum is the "glue" that holds carbon and lead deposits in combustion chambers. As carbon and lead build up, horsepower, pep, and gasoline economy go down.

Others have attempted to neutralize carbon and lead deposits, but Skelly actually reduces them with Keotane, by dissolving the glue-like gum that holds these deposits. And, without gum to stick to, carbon and lead go out the exhaust.

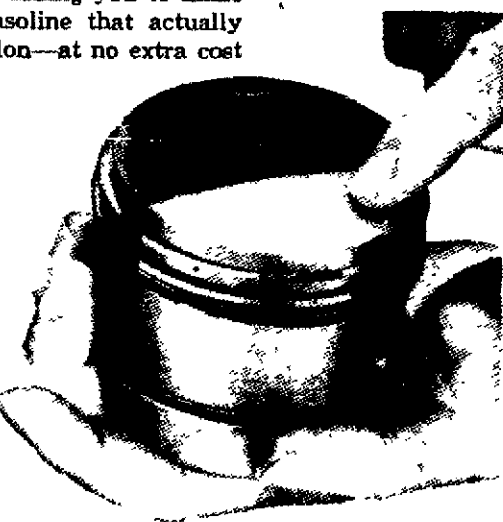

The action of Keotane is so different from any previously known gasoline formulation that Skelly has filed patent application for its use.

Tests Prove Keotane Benefits:

In actual dynamometer tests, engines run on Skelly Supreme Gasoline with Keotane were compared against engines run on Skelly Supreme without Keotane.

Now The Skelly Supreme POWER PAIR IS EVEN MORE POWERFUL!

In all tests, Skelly Supreme Motor Oil was used. Team up Skelly Supreme Motor Oil and Skelly Supreme Gasoline with new Keotane formula. This famous "Power Pair" is guaranteed to give you more power—and more miles—per dollar than any other combination of premium gasoline and motor oil.

Full strength, Keotane dissolves glue-like gum quickly, yet won't harm metal. Injected into Skelly Supreme Gasoline, Keotane removes gum-stuck carbon and lead as you drive. Some cars may reach their peak results in 1,000 miles. Others may take 3,000. A few, perhaps, longer. But once you reach peak results, you will hold at that level as long as you continue to use Skelly Supreme Gasoline with Keotane.

Based on Southwest Research Institute data, engines run on Skelly Supreme with Keotane averaged:

- 12.7% gain in mileage.
- The performance effect of 3 more octane points.
- 14.6% more h. p. output.

1. More mileage: If you get just the average increase of 12.7%, that's about one extra mile of driving in every eight.

Estimated Extra Value Per Gallon To You, Of Skelly Supreme Gasoline With Keotane:

(Based on average current premium gasoline prices in the Midwest)

- 12.7% average gain in mileage . . . . . 3.8¢
- 3 octane points extra performance effect . . . . . 1.0¢
- 14.6% more horsepower output (h.p. saved or added) . . . . . . . . . . 8¢
- Less gum and cleaner carburetors, faster starts with fewer sputters, longer life for batteries . . . . . . . . . . 5¢

Estimated extra value per gallon to you .

6.1¢

The extra values shown above are conservative estimates by our engineers. They are not figured against inferior premium gasolines or regular grade gasolines, but against Skelly Supreme Gasoline, the best top-octane premium gasoline previously made.

Isn't this, alone, reason enough to switch to Skelly Supreme Gasoline with Keotane?

2. More octane: Many new cars often start to "ping" after 5,000 to 8,000 miles, because carbon and lead deposits have increased the octane requirement. Test cars using Keotane showed an octane "appetite" 3.1 points lower, on the average.

age, than cars using the same fuel without Keotane.

3. More horsepower: By keeping new engines clean, new car horsepower is saved. By cleaning up older engines, much horsepower can be regained. Test cars which used Keotane averaged 14.6% more horsepower output at all speeds tested.

New Atom Fuel May Be Cheaper

By BILL RAWLINS

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Atomic scientists have begun tests on a liquid fuel reactor, or atomic furnace, which they believe holds promise of atomic power as cheap as coal by 1969.

The reactor, in which liquid atomic fuels are mixed together much like milk and cream in homogenized milk, is an improved version of a one which generated enough electricity at Oak Ridge to light 50 houses. Because of the way the liquid fuels are mixed, it is called a homogeneous reactor.

It is one of five reactor types which the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) is developing at various installations as a prelude to economical, peacetime atomic power.

"Economical" is the key word. Dr. Alvin M. Weinberg, director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory, points out that atomic power now is far too expensive to compete with power generated at coal-fired steam plants.

As it stands now, it would cost as much as 5 cents per kilowatt hour to generate electricity on a large scale with atomic energy. This compares with Tennessee Valley Authority's cost of about 3-10ths of a cent per kwh for electricity generated at its steam plants.

"There is little question that ultimately nuclear energy will be as cheap as coal energy," Weinberg said. "And there is little question that our coal reserves ultimately will disappear."

Asked when he thought atomic power could compete on a cost basis with coal power, Weinberg said, "I think there's a good chance that we'll have competitive nuclear power by 1969."

Lincoln Girl Heads New Mortar Boards

Virginia Hudson of Lincoln was chosen president of the new members of Black Masque chapter of Mortar Board masked at the annual University of Nebraska May Day festivities.

Miss Hudson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Hudson. She is a student in Teachers College, president of Red Cross, secretary of Student Council and a member of All University Fund Board, Teachers College Dean's Advisory Board, Gamma Phi Beta sorority, and Pi Lambda Theta, honorary association for women in education.

Other new members, all juniors, are:

Carol Link of Alsworth, vice president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Link; Teachers College; president of Associated Women Students; vice president of Delta Gamma; Homecoming Queen and a member of Pi Lambda Theta.

Jo Ann Chalupa of Wilber, secretary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Chalupa; Teachers College; president of Coed Councilors; past president of Alpha Xi Delta; Ideal Nebraska Coed; member of YWCA and Pi Lambda Theta.

ROWE HURLS, Pueblo Stopped Again By 9-2 As Lincoln Holds League Lead

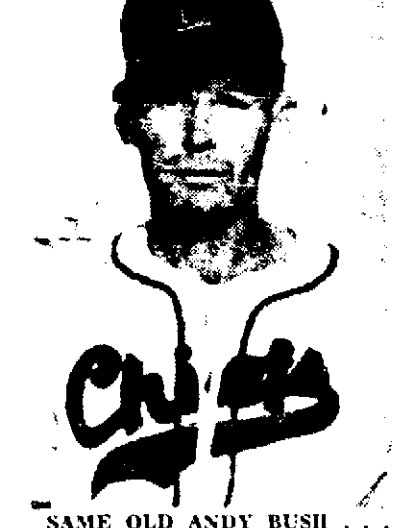

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star
Southpaw Don Rowe pitched and batted the Lincoln Chiefs to an 8-1 victory over the Pueblo Dodgers at Sherman Field Sunday afternoon in an action-packed contest.

It was Lincoln's second win over the Dodgers and the Chiefs' third straight victory. Larry Shepard's hustling crew, with a 9-2 record, still lead the Western League.

The Chiefs and the Dodgers will hook up in the finale of the three-game stand at Sherman Field Monday night at 8 p.m. It will be Larry Shepard's last game as coach of the Chiefs.

Rowe set the Dodgers down on six scattered hits Sunday afternoon, but it was his booming bat that gave him the cushion he needed.

In the second inning, Bill Jackson

SAME OLD ANDY BUSH... but he'll be in a different uniform.

Andy Bush Will Pitch Here Tuesday

Word has been received from Amarillo Manager Chuck Stevens that Andy Bush, the former Lincoln favorite, will be his starting pitcher against the Chiefs when the Gold Sox open their series here Tuesday night.

The "Old Kentucky Colonel" is the leading pitcher in the Western League to date, allowing only one unearned run in 27 innings. He has a 3-0 record, including two shutouts.

Bush was with the Chiefs in 1953 and 1954, posting a 11-10 mark the first year and a sparkling 19-10 record the last. In 1955 Amarillo pitched for the Texas-New Mexico League, winning 17 and losing 12.

Now he's back in Class A and Col. Bush is returning to Sherman Field at 3 p.m. Tuesday night, this time the starting pitcher for the opposition.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

John Landy's debut in the United States certainly was a sensational one, even if the No. 1 miler in the world didn't win.

Via the magic of television millions (at least I think others watched) sat in on the greatest mile race in this country's history, seeing for the first time a sub-four-minute mile in the United States and the first race ever in which two runners bettered 3:59.

This was learned from the wire services which rush news to print shops of the country. And it's a good thing there are newspapers which need these wire services, support them and use the information they furnish so that the news is gathered and available for print.

The TV-ing of the Landy-Bailey race was fine. But the program was ushered from the screen before the official time—or any time except for the announcer's guess—was given.

Result: Many fans (maybe it wasn't millions) saw an exciting race, well-focused camera work, et al. But they never knew the time of the race until the newspapers came out.

Another bizarre angle of the performance at the Los Angeles Coliseum during the filming of "The Landy Story" was the post-race interview.

Landy has just been upset by a relative unknown and the announcer is shrieking, "I'm trying to get John here for an interview... John! O John!... Ah, here he comes now... Hi John. Folks, here's the John Landy. Congratulations John. That was a tremendous race, etc."

Two Marks Up Despite Poor Track Weather

Poor track weather kept performances in general below par on the Nebraska prep scene last week but two new season bests were recorded.

Larry Fisher of Beatrice raised his lead in the shot put with a throw of 55-9 1/2 in the district meet. He held the old leadership with a 55-5 1/8 toss.

Omaha Central took the mile relay leadership from Lincoln High with a time of 3:32.2 in the Omaha district meet. Lincoln had led with 3:34.5.

Leaders in the other events held their own. Ken Ash of Omaha North, the half-mile pace-setter, matched his previous best of 2:00-8.

Pueblo Stopped Again By 9-2 As Lincoln Holds League Lead

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

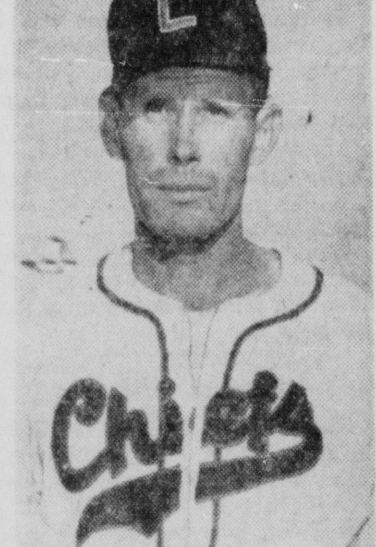

Southpaw Don Rowe pitched and batted the Lincoln Chiefs to an 8-1 victory over the Pueblo Dodgers at Sherman Field Sunday afternoon in an action-packed contest.

It was Lincoln's second win over the Dodgers and the Chiefs' third straight victory. Larry Shepard's hustling crew, with a 9-2 record, still lead the Western League.

The Chiefs and the Dodgers will meet in the finale of the three-game stand at Sherman Field Monday night at 8 p.m. It will be Ladies Night and the girls will see Chief Don Rosello (6-1) open against Larry Sherry (2-1) of the Dodgers.

Rowe set the Dodgers down on six scattered hits Sunday afternoon, but it was his booming bat that gave him the cushion he needed.

In the second inning, Bill Jack-

Andy Bush Will Pitch Here Tuesday

Huge Turnover In Champions, Marks State Meet Possibility

Word has been received from Amarillo Manager Chuck Stevens that Andy Bush, the former Lincoln favorite, will be his starting pitcher against the Chiefs when the Gold Sox open their series here Tuesday night.

The "Old Kentucky Colonel" is the leading pitcher in the Western League to date, allowing only one unearned run in 27 innings. He has a 3-0 record, including two shutouts.

Bush was with the Chiefs in 1953 and 1954, posting a 11-10 mark the first year and a sparkling 19-10 record the last. In 1955 Andy pitched for Amarillo in the West Texas-New Mexico League, winning 17 and losing 12.

Now he's back in Class A and Col. Bush is returning to Sherman Field at 8 p.m. Tuesday night, this time the starting pitcher for the opposition.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

John Landy's debut in the United States certainly was a sensational one, even if the No. 1 miler in the world didn't win.

Via the magic of television millions (at least I think others watched) sat in on the greatest mile race in this country's history, seeing for the first time a sub-four-minute mile in the United States and the first race ever in which two runners bettered 3:59.

This was learned from the wire services which rush news to print shops of the country. And it's a good thing there are newspapers which need these wire services, support them and use the information they furnish so that the news is gathered and available for print.

The TV-ing of the Landy-Bailey race was fine. But the program was ushered from the screen before the official time—or any time except for the announcer's guess—was given.

Result: Many fans (maybe it wasn't millions) saw an exciting race, well-focused camera work, et al. But they never knew the time of the race until the newspapers came out.

Another bizarre angle of the performance at the Los Angeles Coliseum during the filming of "The Landy Story" was the post-race interview.

Landy has just been upset by a relative unknown and the announcer is shrieking, "I'm trying to get John here for an interview... John! O John!... Ah, here he comes now... Hi John. Folks, here's John Landy. Congratulations John. That was a tremendous race, etc.

son and Ray Swarts singled and Rowe scored Jackson with a single to centerfield.

After the Dodgers tied it up in the third on a fielder's choice and Centerfielder Charles Coles' triple, the Chiefs got down to business.

Sam Miley opened the fourth with an infield hit and went to third on Jackson's smash to center. Then the galloping Chiefs pulled one of their pet maneuvers, a double steal, and they had a 2-1 lead.

Rowe wasn't satisfied with that. After Joe Zavattaro drew a walk, the Lincoln lefty socked a three-bagger into the rightfield corner to make it 4-1.

The Chiefs tallied three more times in the fifth without benefit of a base hit. A pair of walks, a hit batsman, a fielder's choice, a passed ball and a sacrifice fly helped the cause.

John McDevitt's single, an error and Miley's sacrifice fly accounted for Lincoln's final run in the eighth. Rowe was never in serious difficulty until the seventh and eighth frames and then double plays took him off the hook.

In the ninth, the Dodgers loaded the sacks on a pair of walks and an error, but Rowe bore down to fan Maury Wills and got Coles to fly to center, ending the game.

In becoming the fourth Lincoln hurler to go the distance this year, Rowe walked six and fanned six. It was his first outing since he went five and a third innings against Des Moines on April 24th.

Championships and records may fall in bunches at the 54th State High School Track and Field Championships at the University of Nebraska Friday and Saturday.

Nebraska's finest prep athletes will be on display in the two-day carnival which should bring a complete turnover of champions and figures to put at least one new record on the books.

Alliance, Burwell, Hay Springs, Wakefield and Bartley were the class champions last year. Burwell, the B champ and Bartley, the D winner last year, are now Class C schools.

Alliance doesn't figure to repeat in the Class A division. Wakefield and Hay Springs, co-champions in Class C, are not strong on paper.

The best bet to pick up the Class A bunting is Scottsbluff. The Bearcats last won the championship in 1953 and will be counting on points in the sprints, hurdles, pole vault, broad jump and discus to win back the trophy.

The Class B race should be a hot one. Bellevue has good depth but may not be able to overcome the class of Ainsworth and Valentine.

Wymore is a strong entry in Class C but Class D figures to be a wide-open division.

One record is almost certain to be broken and eight others might go if conditions are right.

Shakiest of the existing records is the shot-put mark of 55-5 set by Bartley's Ernie Wach last year. When Wach set the record last year he bettered a mark which had stood for 19 years.

Wach's throw wiped out the 52-2 standard set by Bill Pfeiff of Lincoln High in 1936. Now it appears hat Wach's record will fall to Larry Fisher, Beatrice junior.

Fisher has been smashing records right and left this spring. Twice he has surpassed the state mark. His most recent throw was a 55-9/4 toss in the district meet last week. Earlier he recorded a put of 55-5/4.

Other records in jeopardy are the sprint marks and the high-jump record.

George Peterson of Nebraska City will be gunning for the state records in the 100 and 220. He has bettered the 100-yard dash mark of 9.9 by two-tenths of a second, and is credited with a 220 clocking of 21.9 seconds—just one-tenth over the record.

Bill Harmon of Omaha North has one spectacular high jump of 6-5 to his credit. That is only one-half inch shy of the record set last year by York's Duane Smith.

Other records appear safer but could be broken if weather conditions are right and the competition is strong enough.

Ed Hubbard of Omaha Tech has run the 440 in :51.3, eight-tenths off the state mark. Ken Ash of Omaha North has twice run the 880 in 2:00.8. The record is 1:59.3.

Charles Halstead of Scottsbluff has equalled the 180-yard hurdle record of :19.8. His teammate, Jim Kraft, has pole-vaulted 12-6/4, three inches under the state record.

Mile relay teams from Omaha Central and Lincoln High may produce a new record. Central owns a 3:32.2 clocking and the Links are not far behind.

by Ray Swarts, the double steal, a pair of triples and some high jinks on the base paths.

Pueblo left the field in the fifth inning, thinking the Chiefs had been put out, but actually there were only two away.

Swarts hit a long fly to left centerfield and Coles made a fine catch of the ball against the wall. But, while Reggie Grenald tagged up and scored, Swarts was unaware that the ball had been caught and raced to second. On his way to second, he passed Jackson galloping back to first.

That left Swarts the batter who was out on second and Jackson the runner on first back on first. In the confusion, Swarts was called out for the second time and the Dodgers headed for the dugout.

After a hurried consultation, the umpires straightened things out and Pueblo took the field again to finish the frame.

Smoke Signals... Lincoln Catcher Joe Zavattaro was hit on the elbow by a pitch in the seventh inning, but he wasn't seriously injured. Marcus Cobos finished the game behind the plate... Ladies will be admitted Monday night for only the 25-cent service charge...

Attendance Sunday was 851... When Shepard sent in one of the Williams twins to run for Zavattaro in the seventh, the umpire—at the urging of the press box crew—yelled at Larry to ask "which one?" Shepard yelled back, grinning broadly, "I don't know."

That was the end of the game. Jerry Collier, who gunned Falls City to a state Class A basketball championship, has applied his talents to track and field. Gold Sox Sweep Doubleheader
SIOUX CITY, Ia. (AP)—Handed the first game of two untimely Sioux City errors, Amarillo's Gold Sox used Art Culitt's power and Bob Tucker's relief pitching for the second-game decision over the Sioux City Soos here Sunday.

The Gold Sox took the opener, 4-2, and pokeyed the nightcap by a 7-5 score.

Two Marks Up Despite Poor Track Weather
Poor track weather kept performances in general below par on the Nebraska prep scene last week but two new season bests were recorded.

Larry Fisher of Beatrice raised his lead in the shot put with a throw of 55-9/4 in the district meet. He held the old leadership with a 55-5 1/8 toss.

Reds On Scoring Spree, Stop Phils In Twin Bill

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds went on a scoring spree Sunday, sweeping both ends of a doubleheader against the Philadelphia Phillies. The Reds took the second game 11-9 after staving off a late-inning Philadelphia rally, and routed the Phillies 10-2 in the opener.

The Reds poked out five home runs in the two games and connected for 25 assorted hits. The Phillies collected one round-tripper hit in the second game—by Del Ennis—and got 23 hits in both games.

Cincinnati set up an 8-0 lead in the first two innings of the wind-up game before the Phillies could punch a score across.

The Phillies, trying to overhaul the Reds, put together two runs in the third, another in the fourth, two in the fifth and a spurt of four tallies in the sixth.

Four runs in each of the first two innings set up the Reds' early advantage. Redleg scoring in the second was helped by a wild throw by catcher Andy Seminick to second that allowed Ray Jablonski to score. When outfielder Richie Ashburn had trouble getting a firm grip on the wild throw, Bob Thurman sprinted home with another run.

Cards Divide With Giants

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willie Mays' single and fourth stolen base touched off a ninth-inning rally that gave the New York Giants a 5-4 victory over St. Louis Sunday after the Cardinals won a doubleheader opener by the same score on Stan Musial's tie-breaking homer in the eighth.

The Giants' successful uprising in the nightcap game against Vinegar Bend Mizell, who suffered his second loss in four starts after taking a one-run lead on Ken Boy-

Postponed Chiefs' Games Set As Doubleheaders

Three postponed baseball games between Sioux City and the Lincoln Chiefs have been rescheduled as doubleheaders.

All three will be played at Lincoln. The first doubleheader will be played Thursday, May 24; the second on Friday, May 25, and the third on Saturday, June 29. First-game time is 6:30 p.m.

er's sixth-inning homer off rookie southpaw Joe Margoneri.

Mays, singling and running wild, swiped second for his fourth stolen base and scored the tying tally on Daryl Spencer's double. Veteran Ellis Kinder, who had saved the opener in the ninth, took over then and with one out yielded a game-winning single to Dusty Rhodes.

The Reds poked out five home runs in the two games and connected for 25 assorted hits. The Phillies collected one round-tripper hit in the second game—by Del Ennis—and got 23 hits in both games.

Cincinnati set up an 8-0 lead in the first two innings of the wind-up game before the Phillies could punch a score across.

'B&K' Still Have Labor Party Arguing

LONDON (AP) — Soviet leader Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev left behind a first class row inside Britain's Socialist Labor party. It is still going on 10 days after their departure.

Some Labor party leaders are admittedly concerned that the feuding in their ranks may have far-reaching impact on their running fight with the Conservatives. Prime Minister Eden's supporters are smugly happy about the twist in homefront politics growing out of the clash of Labor members of Parliament with the "Kremlin Twins."

The Tories feel they have undercut a long-standing Socialist campaign argument—that a Labor government could negotiate better with the Russians than a Conservative regime.

Private Dinner

The bickering arose from a private dinner party given by the Labor party for Bulganin and Khrushchev at which Hugh Gaitskell, the Labor party leader, raised the question of imprisoned Social Democrats and Jews in Russia and the satellites and offered to supply a list of 200 still in jail. Social Democrats are political comrades of the Laborites. Khrushchev angrily accused Gaitskell of talking "nonsense." He said there were no Social Democrats in Russia and what happened to them in the satellite countries was none of his business. His remarks pretty well upset the Kremlin apparition insofar as the present aim of forging united fronts with West European Socialists is concerned.

Gaitskell has denounced the undercurrent campaign being waged by some Conservatives.

Ridiculous

"The idea that because we dared to raise the subject of the imprisoned Social Democrats we have in any way prejudiced our relations as the next British government with the Soviet government is quite ridiculous," he said. "It is a contemptible piece of anti-Labor propaganda."

The Soviet press has kept hammering at the "anti-Soviet" attitude of Labor party leaders since Premier Bulganin and party boss Khrushchev returned home.

George Brown, outspoken Labor member of Parliament who sparked the clash at the private dinner given the Soviet leaders, has been heckled at some party rallies since. Brown explained to voters in his own constituency in a speech yesterday that he objected to "certain charges Mr. Khrushchev made against this country." The Soviet Communist boss was reported to have blamed Britain's prewar policy for forcing Moscow to make a pact with Hitler.

Right Place?

Differences have arisen in Socialist ranks whether a private dinner was the right place to tackle "B and K." Emanuel Shinwell, a Cabinet minister in the Attlee Labor government, demanded the party apologize—but he was overruled.

Sir Charles Trevelyan, one of the party's elder statesmen, said "the Labor leaders threw away their God-given opportunity. Their deplorable failure will, I am certain, diminish the chances of Labor winning the next election."

But Wilfred Fienburgh, a youthful Labor MP, charged some members of the party were "maliciously exploiting the drama of the B and K dinner... either to work off old grudges or to score points against rivals in their own pursuit of power..."

Everett Gibbs, Mrs. Lowery Head State Letter Carriers And Auxiliary

Everett Gibbs of Grand Island was elected president of the Nebraska State Association of Letter Carriers Sunday as the group wound up its 58th annual convention in Lincoln.

George Kreglo of Auburn was named vice president. Barney Dolen of Omaha was re-elected secretary and Richard Nielsen of Fremont was chosen treasurer.

Retiring president is Francis W. Eckhard of Seward. Scotty Harris of Lincoln and Don Knapp of Hastings were named to the executive board.

Mrs. Katherine Lowery of Omaha was elected president of the organization's auxiliary. Mrs. Arlene Reher of Grand Island was named vice president. Mrs. Leta Eckard of Seward, secretary. Mrs. Mabel Armstrong of Lincoln, treasurer.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
